Planned By Kennedy, Macmillan

DeGaulle Now Holds Key To NATO A-Force Pact

NASSAU, Bahamas (AP) — The Nassau pact hammered out by President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan handed to President de Gaulle of France the key to whether it develops into a pooled Western nuclear wallop.

Unless De Gaulle goes along the pact could become just a British-American solution of their missile problems over the decision to abandon development of the 1,000-mile bomber-borne Skybolt.

Results of the Nassau conference are historic in the energetic effort to develop a multination NATO-operated nuclear umbrella.

But there are three, not two, members of the Western nuclear club and unless all three cooperate, it will be a long, hard road toward the time when the Allies can hope to become one big nuclear family.

Kennedy offered France exactly the same deal agreed with Britain to supply her with Polaris missiles minus warheads for fitting on their own submarines.

He invited De Gaulle, by letter sent Friday, to come into their new club whose purpose would be to create the NATO nuclear force on the assumption — as the United States insists — that nuclear defense is indivisible.

Now the British American leaders must wait anxiously for De Gaulle's answer and he is famous for having ideas of his own.

His attitude likely will decide whether cooperative defense will largely be limited to Britain and the United States.

Britain will not be required to contribute anything to the $2.5 billion cost to the United States of the Polaris development.

In addition, Kennedy and Macmillian agreed that both the United States and Britain should set aside immediately a section of their nuclear-armed bombers for NATO with NATO deciding if, when and how they will be used.

While the nuclear bomber sections of the Nassau pact can be made operable rapidly, it will be a long time before the combined Polaris force is in being. Britain is not likely to begin buying undersea missiles until she has constructed submarines equipped to carry them, probably sometime around 1969 or 1970.

Cuban Prisoners Await Release For Christmas

Exiles Wary On Release Of Captives

Parents, Wives And Sweethearts Were Disappointed Once

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuban exiles here were hopeful but wary today over a prospect that 1,113 captives would be freed from Fidel Castro's prisons.

The yearning parents, wives and sweethearts of the Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners have been disappointed before, when negotiations stalled.

There was no wild enthusiasm when news came from Havana Friday night that Castro had signed an agreement with James B. Donovan, Cuban Prisoner Families Committee negotiator, to release his prisoners in exchange for $53 million badly needed medicines and food.

"First let's see what Fidel does," commented a prominent exile. "This has happened once before, and the prisoners didn't come home."

Another exile said, "We are not going to celebrate until they are here."

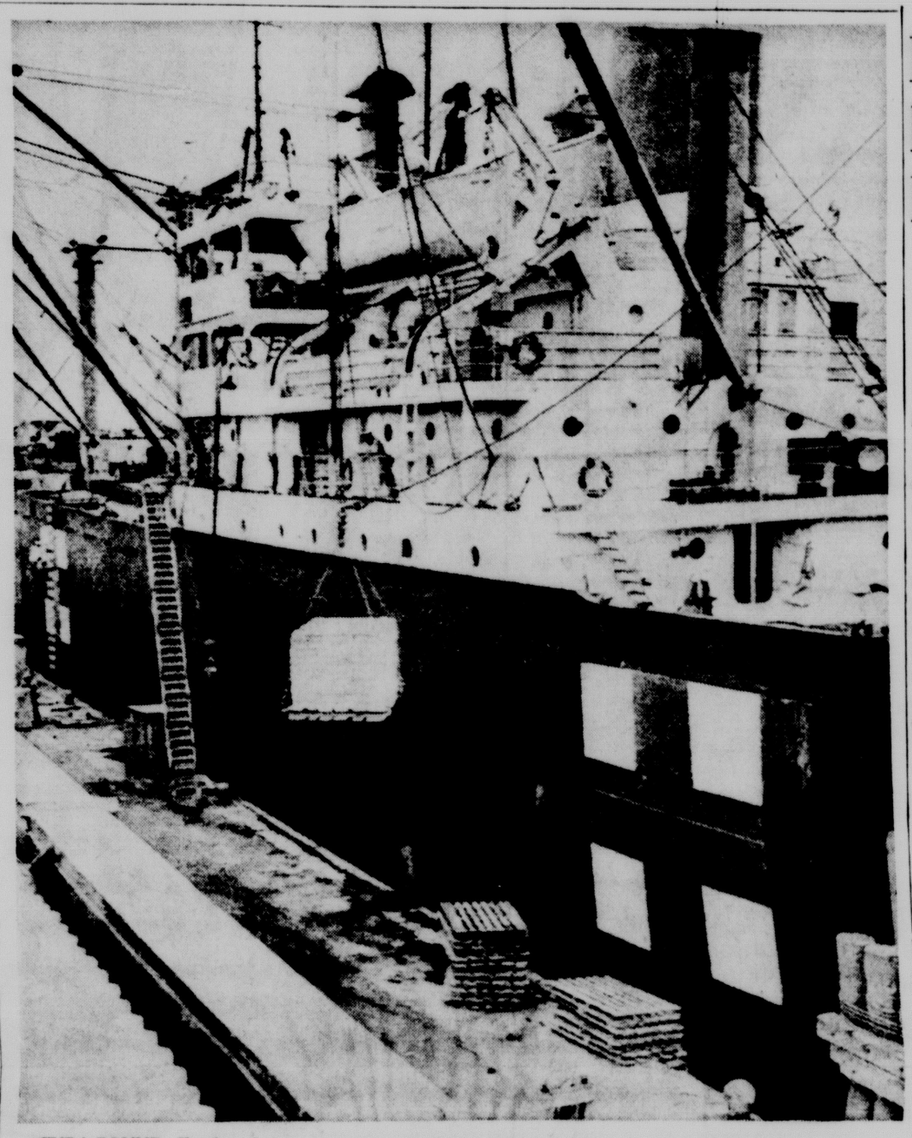

At Homestead Air Force Base, where the captives will be flown Sunday from Havana in Pan American World Airways planes if all goes according to plan, government and Red Cross preparations were under way to receive the prisoners.

A big Christmas tree and hearty meals await them.

The men will be examined by health officials. Then they will pass through special immigration facilities, receive $60 spending money plus a clothing allowance and be reunited with relatives who have waited for them.

Cuban Revolutionary Council President Jose Miro Cardona declined to make a statement. He said any statements would have to come from the Cuban Families Committee, which has been pressing the prisoners' return for 20 months.

A committee spokesman said: "This is what we have been waiting for. This time it should materialize."

Food, Drug Ransom Set For Castro

Fidel Finally Comes To Agreement For Freedom Of 1,113

HAVANA (AP) — A Christmas gift of freedom today awaited 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners after 20 months of captivity. The Castro government agreed Friday to release them in exchange for medicine and food.

The men will be freed on or before Christmas, attorney James B. Donovan of New York, chief negotiator for the prisoners' families, announced. Donovan broke the news himself to some prisoners held in Havana's Principe Castle, and word of their long-waited freedom also was relayed to other captives held on the Isle of Pines off southwest Cuba.

In Washington, Red Cross officials reported the first prisoners are expected to arrive in Miami Sunday. But Havana Radio said they would not be freed until Monday. Red Cross officials said they are highiy optimistic that the entire prisoner group will be back among their friends and relatives by Christmas. Some 20,000 relatives of the captives live in Miami.

A mother of one of the prisoners said the men in Principe Prison had a feast of homemade delicacies Friday. She said it was the first time in more than six months that parcels had been allowed to go through to the prisoners.

The freighter S. S. African Pilot was expected to sail for Havana from Port Everglades, Fla., today with some of the supplies requested by Prime Minister Fidel Castro as the price for the release of the prisoners. The medicines were donated by U.S. drug manufacturers.

The Cuban government originally demanded $62 million as a ransom. The value of the food and medicine agreed on is estimated at $53 million. The pact specifies the prisoners will be freed when 20 per cent of the supplies are in Cuban hands.

The Red Cross said it is expected to take a few months to get the full amount of the supplies that Castro wants.

Autoist Held After Fleeing Crash Scene

2nd Driver Jailed In Mishaps Blamed On Slippery Streets

Two motorists were cited in a series of four mishaps blamed on icy streets Friday night and early today, police reported.

Unable to post bonds, Philip W. Sole, 27, of 335 W. 9th St., who was hurt slightly in one crash, and Robert E. Adkins, 24, of 525 Palissey St., are being held in jail pending hearings in Municipal Court, probably Monday morning.

Sole was cited for driving without an operator's license and leaving the scene of a three-car accident about 9:45 p. m. Friday on St. Clair Ave. in which two autos were damaged heavily, police said.

Police said Sole refused to make a statement but Miss Luanne Miller, 20, of 717 Bank St., who was headed north, said the other motorist was descending the grade when his car went sideways and struck her 1959 auto and a parked 1953 car owned by Junior R. Garren, 1018 St. Clair Ave.

The other driver got out of the car and fled down the street, she told officers.

The entire front ends of Miss Miller's auto and Sole's 1955 sedan were heavily damaged, along

Burglar Flees From Chase By Employes

A thief escaped along the Ohio River bank Friday night after being surprised by employes while burglarizing a trucking firm's office on the River Rd.

Employes of YELP Service, Inc., told police they found the man robbing the office and chased him through the front door and across the highway to the river bank where he disappeared despite a search.

Police said the man fled with an undetermined amount of change taken from a soft drink vending machine.

A bar had been used to break a lock of a door on the north side of the building and to pry open two locked doors and the vending machine, police reported. The burglary was discovered at 10:52 p.m.

Joseph J. Cianni, 743 Lincoln Ave., reported to police this morning a thief stole a pair of five-buckle overshoes and three cigarette lighters from his station wagon while it was parked at his home between 9 p.m. Friday and 7:15 this morning. The glove compartment was ransacked, he said.

Refractories Firm To Use 2nd Addition

Rising out of the ashes of disaster like the legendary Phoenix, a thriving young district ceramic firm is completing its second major plant addition in a little over a year.

It is Metsch Refractories, Inc., of Chester, which has noted a steady growth in sales and employment in the last several years.

The company is putting the finishing touches on a 60-x-100-foot metal building that will add approximately 6,000 square feet to its plant space.

The new structure already is in use, although the electrical wiring remains to be completed. It will be used for shipping and warehousing, allowing use of more space in the original plant. The addition adjoins the main plant, leading off from the old packing shed area. Space in the main plant formerly used for shipping and warehousing will be freed by use of the addition.

Metsch manufactures electrical porcelain specialties, including high heat resistant refractories.

The company was organized in Newell in October 1952. In January 1957, its plant was destroyed by fire. A short time later, the firm acquired the plant of the former Continental Kilns, Inc., at Chester and resumed operations.

In the summer of 1961 the company erected a 3,000-square-foot addition to house a kiln which it acquired from the former Ceramic Specialties, Inc., plant in West End. Ceramic Specialties was forced to close and its plant was razed to clear the right - of - way for the West End - California Hollow Freeway.

Metsch had the kiln borken into five sections, which then were hauled to Chester on lowboy trailers. The company put the sections back together again and then built the addition around the completed kiln.

Fred A. Beedle, president, commented that sales have shown a healthy upward trend over the last few years and employment also is on the upswing. The plant now employs 65, compared with approximately 45 to 50 at the same time a year ago, he said.

The company also is working on a remodeling program that will double the size of its office space. The remodeling is expected to be finished in a few weeks.

"We have high hopes that we will continue to grow," Beedle commented.

Anger Flares In England Over Polaris

Kennedy-Macmillan Accord Results In Wave Of Criticism

It threatened to produce the biggest and most bitter defense row since the war.

The opposition Labor party was reported planning to mount a major attack on the government. It will oppose the deal on the grounds that it is too late, too costly and that the nuclear deterrent had better be left in the hands of one power, the United States.

A furious onslaught was also expected from some right-wing rank-and-file members of Macmillan's ruling Conservative party when he reports back to the House of Commons next month.

As they prepared to disperse for the Christmas recess there were many angry accusations that Macmillan had bartered away Britain's nuclear independence and was coming back empty-handed.

A smaller heading said: "Kennedy wins all the way."

The left-leaning Daily Mirror said Macmillan returns well aware that he faces his biggest crisis since he became prime minister.

Macmillan will find himself in the position of a man trying to juggle several hot potatoes at the same time.

He will have to justifv the switch from Skybolt to Polaris while demonstrating that Britain can afford the huge sums needed to build Polaris-carrying submarines and the Polaris warheads without weakening the country's conventional forces or raising taxation to new high levels.

New Snow Due With Colder Temperatures

Winter arrived officially at 3:15 a. m. today and the Ohio weatherman held a proper reception — freezing rain that made driving hazardous and a promise of more snow and colder temperatures for the weekend.

There will be light snow tonight until the mercury falls into the predicted low range of 20 to 25 degrees and Sunday will be windy and still colder with snow changing to flurries by late afternoon. Today's high range will be 29 to 34. The overnight low downtown was 33 at 6 a. m.

The district got hardly an inch of snow Friday but there had been the possibility of 3 to 5 inches. With much colder temperatures due, what ever snow falls over the weekend apparently will be preserved for a White Christmas.

Forenoon snow, rather dense at times, covered the iced roads, adding to the slippery conditions, and state and county highway crews resumed cindering.

From Bomber 7 Miles High

Skybolt Missile Launched On First Successful Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Streaking more than seven miles high, a B52 bomber launched the controversial Skybolt missile today on its first successful test flight in six launchings.

Although the Skybolt program was handed a death sentence this week in the Anglo-American Bahamas conference, the Air Force has several test missiles remaining and intends to fire them in case the project is revived at a future date.

The 39-foot, 5½-ton rocket plummeted some 500 feet before the first stage fired as planned. The sleek projectile shot forward in an upward swooping curve far in front of the plane, leaving a trial of fluffy white smoke in its wake.

After a brief coasting period, the second stage flashed to life and the Skybolt climbed about 300 miles before diving into a broad ocean area about 900 miles down range. No attempt was made to guide it to a precise target.

The Air Force reported success of the test and said it was the first time a ballistic missile ever was launched successfully from an aircraft and flew its full mission under its own power and guidance.

The announcement said the rocket was fired at an altitude of

Jap Premier Charts Record High Budget

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda's government outlined today a record high budget for fiscal 1963 totaled 2,855,808,000,000 yen — $7,932,800,000.

The draft budget — a 17.7 per cent increase over the 1962 budget —calls for major outlays to expand public construction, social security, self-defense and education. It calls for $661,855,555 for military expenditures an increase of about $83.3 million, and represents 8.3 per cent of the total budget.

Gov. Barnett Faced By New U.S. Action

Pleas Court Asked To Hold Him In Criminal Contempt

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A federal appeals court has been asked to hold Mississippi's governor and lieutenant governor in criminal contempt for blocking the enrollment of a Negro at the previously all-white University of Mississippi last September.

The Justice Department made the request Friday, acting on a directive issued by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which will hear the case.

The New Orleans-based appellate court has already convicted Gov. Ross R. Barnett and Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr., of civil contempt.

If the two officials are found guilty, it could mean jail terms and large fines. Penalties are almost unlimited in criminal contempt cases.

Eight of the circuit's nine judges participated in the deliberations leading to the civil contempt convictions of Branett and Johnson. However, it has not been determined how many of the jurists will hear the criminal contempt case.

Civil contempt is aimed at enforcing compliance with a court directive and offers the defendant a chance to purge himself and perhaps escape any penalty. Criminal contempt involves punishment for an act already committed with no chance of gaining forgiveness through future action.

Boy Afraid Missile Might Strike Santa

CHATHAM, England (AP) — A 7-year-old boy is a little worried that a missile might hit Santa.

"I hope Russia and the United States don't send anybody more into space until Christmas is over, said the boy's letter, released by the county post office. "Please stay close to the ground, Santa."

Dock Strike Near On Gulf And Atlantic

NEW YORK (AP)—A threatened dock strike that would tie up shipping in all Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports from Maine to Texas was only a day away today.

With no indication of averting it, longshoremen were mapping plans for round-the-clock picketing.

A spokesman for the International Longshoremen's Association said the union would permit ships to unload passengers. The union also would refrain from picketing action that would block tugboat assistance to ships arriving in ports, he said.

The strike by 60,000 longshoremen would be a continuation of one that was halted after four days by a federal court injunction obtained by the government early in October.

The court enjoined the longshoremen under the Taft-Hartley Act, which provides for an 80-day cooling-off period in strikes affecting the national welfare.

Soviet Aide Attacks U.S. Congo Survey

Warns Its Military Mission Could Lead To Serious Results

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Dispatch of a U.S. military survey mission to the Congo has brought a Soviet warning that the move could lead to serious results.

Soviet Chief Delegate Valerian A. Zorin blasted the action as he and U. S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson held separate news conferences Friday to give their views on the 17th General Assembly session that just ended.

Stevenson said the eight-man mission led by Lt. Gen. Louis W. Truman had been sent to strengthen Secretary-General U Thant's plans to end the secession of Katanga Province.

But Zorin accused the United States of embarking on "the road to direct subversion" of U. N. principles.

From Bomber 7 Miles High

Skybolt Missile Launched On First Successful Test

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Streaking more than seven miles high, a B52 bomber launched the controversial Skybolt missile today on its first successful test flight in six launchings.

Although the Skybolt program was handed a death sentence this week in the Anglo-American Bahamas conference, the Air Force has several test missiles remaining and intends to fire them in case the project is revived at a future date.

The 39-foot, 5½-ton rocket plummeted some 500 feet before the first stage fired as planned. The sleek projectile shot forward in an upward swooping curve far in front of the plane, leaving a trial of fluffy white smoke in its wake.

After a brief coasting period, the second stage flashed to life and the Skybolt climbed about 300 miles before diving into a broad ocean area about 900 miles down range. No attempt was made to guide it to a precise target.

The Air Force reported success of the test and said it was the first time a ballistic missile ever was launched successfully from an aircraft and flew its full mission under its own power and guidance.

The announcement said the rocket was fired at an altitude of

Jap Premier Charts Record High Budget

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda's government outlined today a record high budget for fiscal 1963 totaled 2,855,808,000,000 yen — $7,932,800,000.

The draft budget — a 17.7 per cent increase over the 1962 budget —calls for major outlays to expand public construction, social security, self-defense and education. It calls for $661,855,555 for military expenditures an increase of about $83.3 million, and represents 8.3 per cent of the total budget.

Gov. Barnett Faced By New U.S. Action

Pleas Court Asked To Hold Him In Criminal Contempt

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A federal appeals court has been asked to hold Mississippi's governor and lieutenant governor in criminal contempt for blocking the enrollment of a Negro at the previously all-white University of Mississippi last September.

The Justice Department made the request Friday, acting on a directive issued by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which will hear the case.

The New Orleans-based appellate court has already convicted Gov. Ross R. Barnett and Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr., of civil contempt.

If the two officials are found guilty, it could mean jail terms and large fines. Penalties are almost unlimited in criminal contempt cases.

Eight of the circuit's nine judges participated in the deliberations leading to the civil contempt convictions of Branett and Johnson. However, it has not been determined how many of the jurists will hear the criminal contempt case.

Civil contempt is aimed at enforcing compliance with a court directive and offers the defendant a chance to purge himself and perhaps escape any penalty. Criminal contempt involves punishment for an act already committed with no chance of gaining forgiveness through future action.

Boy Afraid Missile Might Strike Santa

CHATHAM, England (AP) — A 7-year-old boy is a little worried that a missile might hit Santa.

"I hope Russia and the United States don't send anybody more into space until Christmas is over, said the boy's letter, released by the county post office. "Please stay close to the ground, Santa."

Dock Strike Near On Gulf And Atlantic

NEW YORK (AP)—A threatened dock strike that would tie up shipping in all Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports from Maine to Texas was only a day away today.

With no indication of averting it, longshoremen were mapping plans for round-the-clock picketing.

A spokesman for the International Longshoremen's Association said the union would permit ships to unload passengers. The union also would refrain from picketing action that would block tugboat assistance to ships arriving in ports, he said.

The strike by 60,000 longshoremen would be a continuation of one that was halted after four days by a federal court injunction obtained by the government early in October.

The court enjoined the longshoremen under the Taft-Hartley Act, which provides for an 80-day cooling-off period in strikes affecting the national welfare.

Soviet Aide Attacks U.S. Congo Survey

Warns Its Military Mission Could Lead To Serious Results

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Dispatch of a U.S. military survey mission to the Congo has brought a Soviet warning that the move could lead to serious results.

Soviet Chief Delegate Valerian A. Zorin blasted the action as he and U. S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson held separate news conferences Friday to give their views on the 17th General Assembly session that just ended.

Stevenson said the eight-man mission led by Lt. Gen. Louis W. Truman had been sent to strengthen Secretary-General U Thant's plans to end the secession of Katanga Province.

But Zorin accused the United States of embarking on "the road to direct subversion" of U. N. principles.

Traditional carols and selections associated with Christmas will be sung in cantata and other musical programs in keeping with the Festival of the Nativity of Christ.

Catholics of the area will attend the traditional Solemn High Mass at midnight when choirs will present special Christmas music.

In some of the churches, the celebration of the birth of Christ will start Sunday during the morning and evening services, and will feature special presentations.

"Christmas Time," pageant of the birth of the Christ Child, will be presented by the Junior Songsters and the children of the Salvation Army Sunday at 7 p. m.

It will be presented in five scenes with 10 principal parts. An instrumental prelude will be featured by a brass quartet from the Senior Band. Junior soloists will be Joe Mercer and Eva Ruth Hathorn. 4 Truck Bids Due For Study At Salineville

SALINEVILLE — Four bids for a new village truck were opened by Council at a meeting Friday night when a discussion was held on regular reading of water meters.

A committee was appointed to study the truck bids and to file a report at the meeting Jan. 14.

Bids included the J. & J. Motors of Canton, Ford, $2,891; Smith & Son of Carrollton, General Motors, $3,000; Hart Motors of Salineville, Chevrolet, $2,941, and Loudon Motors of Minerva, Ford, $2,653.

All firms but Hart filed bids without including offers of trade-in. of the present 1952 Chevrolet truck. The Loudon offer was for a smaller type truck.

Councilmen Gillis Earl and John Beadnell will meet Friday with Mayor Stanley Fitch to study the bids and report later to Council.

Counilman Donald Lewis suggested cost estimates he secured on repairs for the present truck, and Mayor Fitch said he would obtain offers.

Lewis reported completion of repairs to the fire station heating system.

Discussion was launched by Lewis on reading of water meters. He suggested the meters be read each month instead of being read one month and estimated the next.

Mayor Fitch reported he had conferred recently with the Board of Public Affairs about the meter reading system, and would arrange another meeting to discuss the matter. There are some 600 customers in the town.

A request was received from the volunteer firemen for an increase of pay from the present $1.15 an hour to $1.25. Council agreed to study the request and consider action at the next meeting.

Mayor Fitch reported planned repairs of spouting and other facilities at the Village Hall have been delayed by the weather. He reported on requests for ashes for Schoolhouse Hill and Foundry Hill, and Pete Growall, street supervisor, was slated to do the ashing this morning.

Reports of street repair needs were referred to the street committee. Repairs probably will be delayed until the snow is cleared, it was announced.

Mayor Fitch reported $215 collected in fines during November and up to Tuesday.

Police Chief Roy Lewis reported 1,986 miles patrolled from Nov. 7 to Friday, five accidents investigated, five arrests made, seven warnings issued, four domestic troubles checked and nine miscellaneous investigations made.

Empire Woman Hurt In Car Skid

An Empire woman was injured when the car in which she was riding spun on the ice and went over an embankment along Route 7 about one and two - tenths miles north of Toronto Friday at 1:55 p. m.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol said Pearl Cunningham, 65, of Empire was the driver of the vehicle, which was headed north. She lost control on a curve, spun around in the highway and then went over the embankment off the right side.

Her daughter, Billie Halligan, 32, of Empire, was treated at Ohio Valley Hospital at Steubenville for multiple abrasions of the left ear and scalp.

Officers said there were seven minor accidents Friday which could be blamed on the icy highways.

Wellsville Motorist Cited After Skid Crash

A Wellsville man was cited after his car struck a parked car at 5th St. and Washington Ave., Wellsville, at 1:45 a. m. today.

Police said James Duck, 513 18th St., skidded on the ice and struck the car of Thomas Calloway, 531 Washington Ave. Considerable damage resulted.

Duck was cited for failure to keep his car under control. He will receive a hearing before Mayor William Daugherty of Wellsville.

Prisoners

Harriman, chairman of the American Red Cross, said the prisoners will be flown to Miami in a four-plane shuttle. The first Pan-American World Airways plane is scheduled to leave Miami for Havana at 6 a.m. Sunday.

The shuttle planes will be loaded with drugs and food on their runs to Havana. Red Cross officials called the project the largest operation ever undertaken by the organization in the handling of relief supplies to meet human suffering. More than 100 U.S. manufacturers contributed or pledged food and drugs to the program.

Havana Radio said the exchange will be completed "within six months and the first shipment will probably reach Cuba tonight." The broadcast referred to the exchange as "partial compensation for the damage suffered by the Cuban people during the April 1961 imperialist invasion of Cuba."

The radio said the shipments to Cuba have been guaranteed by a letter of credit on the Royal Bank of Canada in favor of the Cuban National Bank, for the total "indemnification" amount. The Red Cross said in Washington arrangements to guarantee the shipment were made through American as well as Canadian banks.

Three members of the Cuban Red Cross are going promptly to Miami to check on the shipments, the Havana broadcast said.

(Two doctors who fled Cuba have emphasized Castro's need for medicines. They said in Miami that child epidemics have caused deaths by the thousands and that even such things as aspirin are missing from drug store shelves.)

It was reported in Baltimore, that the Red Cross was making plans for a second ship to carry supplies to Cuba.

The agreement climaxed off-and-on negotiations that began only a month after the prisoners were captured in the April 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion attempt.

Castro first proposed swapping the captives for 500 bulldozers. Protracted talks followed, but they got nowhere.

A military court on April 8, 1962, found 1,179 prisoners guilty of treason and sentenced them to 30-year prison terms, but the court also set ransoms for each prisoner.

Negotiations then began between the government and a committee representing the families of the prisoners. In August, Donovan, an international negotiator who arranged the exchange of U2 pilot Frances Gary Powers for a Soviet spy, obtained special clearance from the U.S. State Department to enter Cuba and he began his meetings with Castro. The talks led to a project to exchange the prisoners for food and medicine.

2 Countians Held In $20 Burglary

LISBON — A Salem youth and another from the Rogers area will be charged with the burglary of the Witmer Implement Co., just east of Washingtonville on Alt. Route 14, Friday evening, according to Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan.

Donald Mannis, 19, of Salem and Walter Thompson, 21, of Rogers R. D. 1 were arrested about 9:30 last night by a sheriff's deputy and the State Highway Patrol.

The sheriff's department received a call about a strange car parked in an orchard near the implement shop and Deputy Herman Wellman apprehended Thompson when the suspect returned to the car. Manis was picked up while hitch - hiking on Alt. Route 14 by the patrol.

Both admitted removing a cover on a rear window to gain entrance. They took approximately $20 which Manis had on him when arrested, Sheriff VanFossan said.

The implement shop has been broken into frequently in the past years.

Kluz Appointed For Orient Tour

The International Affairs Department of the United Steelworkers of America announced at Washington that Kay Kluz, director of District 20, has been named by the Department of State to represent American labor in a six-week mission to Japan and India.

Kluz's appointment, said Dean K. Clowes, of the Steelworkers International Affairs Department, is part of a new exchange program set up by the federal government in co-operation with the United Steelworkers, the AFL-CIO, and the trade union movements in various foreign countries.

The program was designed to develop closer working relationships and better understanding between labor unions in the United States and those in the free nations abroad.

"Kluz was chosen by our government for this mission because of his varied union experiences in the United Steelworkers," Clowes said. "He has the endorsement, not only of the Steelworkers, but of the AFL-CIO."

Kluz is to begin his mission for the State Department, in January, and is scheduled to spend three weeks in Japan before going on to India. He heads the District 20 office at Ambridge, which includes the Midland area locals.

There was no apparent loss in a burglary discovered Friday at the Fix-It Shop, 732 St. Clair Ave., police reported.

George Freeman, the owner, told officers the shop was entered between 9:05 p.m. Thursday and 9:20 a.m. Friday by an intruder who forced the front door. He said a check indicated nothing was taken.

Ronald Brown, an employe, discovered the entry when reporting for work, officers said. Patrolman Orin C. Smith investigated.

Sole was treated at City Hospital at 10:40 p.m. for a laceration of the scalp, contusions of the knee and abrasions of the left forearm.

Police said Adkins, whose driver's license had been revoked, was involved in a two - car crash on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." at 12:15 a. m. today.

Adkins was headed west about 40 miles an hour when he started to pass another westbound car driven by Charles G. Thompson, 27, of 911 Dresden Ave.

His 1958 sedan struck an icy spot and Adkins lost control with his car hitting a guardrail on the south side of the highway and careening back into the Thompson auto, officers reported.

An auto - truck collision at 7:19 p. m. at Pennsylvania Ave. and Palissey St. also damaged six hedges at the East End fire station, police said.

According to police, a MacBurney Pharmacy truck operated by David Schmidbauer, 17, of 818 Highland Ave. was headed east on Pennsylvania Ave. and the car operated by Herbert Hughes Jr., 19, of 430 Globe St. was headed north on Palissey St.

Hughes was unable to halt at the intersection because of the icy street, police were told. The front end of the Hughes car and the right front of the truck were damaged, officers said.

Junior Dale Salisbury, 36, of Point Marion, Pa., reported to police he was headed south on the freeway about 10:40 p. m. yesterday when his car started to slide.

Skybolt

40,000 feet and landed in the preselected target area hundreds of miles down range.

An official hailed the success as evidence that the highly complex missile can work despite what some critics have said about its capability.

However, today's missile was far from the finished product and much work would be needed to make it a reliable weapons system.

The Air Force and Douglas Co., Skybolt prime contractor, had hoped to fire the missile during the Bahamas talks this week between President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Macmillan because they were confident a success might have some bearing on the discussions. But political decisions apparently forced a delay until after completion of the meetings.

In order to launch the missile, the Air Force had to open the range—which had been closed for the Christmas holiday—and pay overtime wages to scores of tracking and support personnel.

Earlier this week, the Skybolt was the center of a bitter dispute between the United States and Great Britain. U.S. announcement of plans to abandon the Skybolt embittered the British, who had planned to mount the 1,000-mile missile on their Vulcan bombers as a deterrent measure.

Serviceman Beaten By 3

An investigation got under way early this morning by Hancock County sheriff's deputies into an apparent brawl in which a 25-year-old Chester GI was severely beaten.

Herman William Koeppen, 244 George St., Chester, an Army specialist stationed in Pittsburgh, was listed in "poor" condition today in City Hospital with wounds received about 4 this morning, apparently at a tavern on Route 30 east of Chester.

Deputies said preliminary investigation indicated Koeppen, home on furlough for the weekend, was involved in a fight with perhaps three other men but they are not certain where it happened.

Koeppen's injuries included deep cuts of the head that were probably inflicted when struck by a bottle. He lost a lot of blood, the sheriff's office said.

Officers investigating the beating said they discovered pools of blood at several taverns on Route 30 and also at a spot along the highway, and they still are attempting to pinpoint where the brawl took place.

Koeppen was rushed by ambulance to City Hospital at 5:49.

In addition to wounds of the head, the victim's hand was also injured, deputies said. Koeppen told officers this morning he was "beaten up by three men after visiting several taverns."

Weirton Driver's Car Skids Off Slick Road

A Weirton motorist escaped unhurt when his sedan skidded on snow - slickened Route 2 south of New Cumberland and came to rest against an ice cream store Friday afternoon at 3:45.

Hancock County sheriff's deputies said Larry E. Paolisso, 23, was northbound when the mishap occurred near the Town & Country Club.

Chester Mishap Damages 2 Autos

Two cars were heavily damaged in a near head-on collision on a narrow, snow - covered road near Chester Friday afternoon at 2:35, but both drivers escaped unhurt.

Hancock County sheriff's deputies said the accident involved a 1953 four - door sedan operated by James Leroy Williams, 20, of 266 Moore St., and a 1961 two-door sedan driven by Paul F. Dailey, 52, of Lisbon R.D. 3.

They collided at the crest of a hill in front of the Grandview School in Lawrenceville. Deputies said snowdrifts had narrowed the road to about one lane and neither driver had space to maneuver away from the crash.

Williams' car was towed away by a wrecker and there was also heavy damage to Dailey's Chevrolet Impala.

East Palestine Slates Sewer Rate Revision

EAST PALESTINE — Council at an informal session Friday night tentatively authorized commercial and industrial sewer rate charges based on the number of persons served rather than for units — such as schools, churches and potteries.

The change in billing and rates was sought by Squire, Sanders & Demsey, a Cleveland bond concern handling financial arrangements for a new sewage plant. Representatives of the firm said few communities now use the unit rate system.

A survey will be made on the number of persons served at the unit clients to determine the new rates.

4 Truck Bids Due For Study At Salineville

SALINEVILLE — Four bids for a new village truck were opened by Council at a meeting Friday night when a discussion was held on regular reading of water meters.

A committee was appointed to study the truck bids and to file a report at the meeting Jan. 14.

Bids included the J. & J. Motors of Canton, Ford, $2,891; Smith & Son of Carrollton, General Motors, $3,000; Hart Motors of Salineville, Chevrolet, $2,941, and Loudon Motors of Minerva, Ford, $2,653.

All firms but Hart filed bids without including offers of trade-in. of the present 1952 Chevrolet truck. The Loudon offer was for a smaller type truck.

Councilmen Gillis Earl and John Beadnell will meet Friday with Mayor Stanley Fitch to study the bids and report later to Council.

Counilman Donald Lewis suggested cost estimates he secured on repairs for the present truck, and Mayor Fitch said he would obtain offers.

Lewis reported completion of repairs to the fire station heating system.

Discussion was launched by Lewis on reading of water meters. He suggested the meters be read each month instead of being read one month and estimated the next.

Mayor Fitch reported he had conferred recently with the Board of Public Affairs about the meter reading system, and would arrange another meeting to discuss the matter. There are some 600 customers in the town.

A request was received from the volunteer firemen for an increase of pay from the present $1.15 an hour to $1.25. Council agreed to study the request and consider action at the next meeting.

Mayor Fitch reported planned repairs of spouting and other facilities at the Village Hall have been delayed by the weather. He reported on requests for ashes for Schoolhouse Hill and Foundry Hill, and Pete Growall, street supervisor, was slated to do the ashing this morning.

Reports of street repair needs were referred to the street committee. Repairs probably will be delayed until the snow is cleared, it was announced.

Mayor Fitch reported $215 collected in fines during November and up to Tuesday.

Police Chief Roy Lewis reported 1,986 miles patrolled from Nov. 7 to Friday, five accidents investigated, five arrests made, seven warnings issued, four domestic troubles checked and nine miscellaneous investigations made.

Empire Woman Hurt In Car Skid

An Empire woman was injured when the car in which she was riding spun on the ice and went over an embankment along Route 7 about one and two - tenths miles north of Toronto Friday at 1:55 p. m.

The Wintersville State Highway Patrol said Pearl Cunningham, 65, of Empire was the driver of the vehicle, which was headed north. She lost control on a curve, spun around in the highway and then went over the embankment off the right side.

Her daughter, Billie Halligan, 32, of Empire, was treated at Ohio Valley Hospital at Steubenville for multiple abrasions of the left ear and scalp.

Officers said there were seven minor accidents Friday which could be blamed on the icy highways.

Wellsville Motorist Cited After Skid Crash

A Wellsville man was cited after his car struck a parked car at 5th St. and Washington Ave., Wellsville, at 1:45 a. m. today.

Police said James Duck, 513 18th St., skidded on the ice and struck the car of Thomas Calloway, 531 Washington Ave. Considerable damage resulted.

Duck was cited for failure to keep his car under control. He will receive a hearing before Mayor William Daugherty of Wellsville.

Harriman, chairman of the American Red Cross, said the prisoners will be flown to Miami in a four-plane shuttle. The first Pan-American World Airways plane is scheduled to leave Miami for Havana at 6 a.m. Sunday.

The shuttle planes will be loaded with drugs and food on their runs to Havana. Red Cross officials called the project the largest operation ever undertaken by the organization in the handling of relief supplies to meet human suffering. More than 100 U.S. manufacturers contributed or pledged food and drugs to the program.

Havana Radio said the exchange will be completed "within six months and the first shipment will probably reach Cuba tonight." The broadcast referred to the exchange as "partial compensation for the damage suffered by the Cuban people during the April 1961 imperialist invasion of Cuba."

The radio said the shipments to Cuba have been guaranteed by a letter of credit on the Royal Bank of Canada in favor of the Cuban National Bank, for the total "indemnification" amount. The Red Cross said in Washington arrangements to guarantee the shipment were made through American as well as Canadian banks.

Three members of the Cuban Red Cross are going promptly to Miami to check on the shipments, the Havana broadcast said.

(Two doctors who fled Cuba have emphasized Castro's need for medicines. They said in Miami that child epidemics have caused deaths by the thousands and that even such things as aspirin are missing from drug store shelves.)

It was reported in Baltimore, that the Red Cross was making plans for a second ship to carry supplies to Cuba.

The agreement climaxed off-and-on negotiations that began only a month after the prisoners were captured in the April 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion attempt.

Castro first proposed swapping the captives for 500 bulldozers. Protracted talks followed, but they got nowhere.

A military court on April 8, 1962, found 1,179 prisoners guilty of treason and sentenced them to 30-year prison terms, but the court also set ransoms for each prisoner.

Negotiations then began between the government and a committee representing the families of the prisoners. In August, Donovan, an international negotiator who arranged the exchange of U2 pilot Frances Gary Powers for a Soviet spy, obtained special clearance from the U.S. State Department to enter Cuba and he began his meetings with Castro. The talks led to a project to exchange the prisoners for food and medicine.

2 Countians Held In $20 Burglary

LISBON — A Salem youth and another from the Rogers area will be charged with the burglary of the Witmer Implement Co., just east of Washingtonville on Alt. Route 14, Friday evening, according to Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan.

Donald Mannis, 19, of Salem and Walter Thompson, 21, of Rogers R. D. 1 were arrested about 9:30 last night by a sheriff's deputy and the State Highway Patrol.

The sheriff's department received a call about a strange car parked in an orchard near the implement shop and Deputy Herman Wellman apprehended Thompson when the suspect returned to the car. Manis was picked up while hitch - hiking on Alt. Route 14 by the patrol.

Both admitted removing a cover on a rear window to gain entrance. They took approximately $20 which Manis had on him when arrested, Sheriff VanFossan said.

The implement shop has been broken into frequently in the past years.

Girl Suffers Hand Scalds

A Shadyside area girl scalded on the hand by hot water at home and a Wellsville resident injured in a fall on ice were treated early today at City Hospital. Seven district residents were treated Friday after separate mishaps.

Donald Johnson, 7, son of Walter Johnson of Dodge St., suffered a laceration of the chin while sled riding.

Paul Juter, 7, and Mary Juter, 8, children of Larry Juter of Youngstown, were treated for inhalation of auto fumes suffered while riding in a car.

Kluz Appointed For Orient Tour

The International Affairs Department of the United Steelworkers of America announced at Washington that Kay Kluz, director of District 20, has been named by the Department of State to represent American labor in a six-week mission to Japan and India.

Kluz's appointment, said Dean K. Clowes, of the Steelworkers International Affairs Department, is part of a new exchange program set up by the federal government in co-operation with the United Steelworkers, the AFL-CIO, and the trade union movements in various foreign countries.

The program was designed to develop closer working relationships and better understanding between labor unions in the United States and those in the free nations abroad.

"Kluz was chosen by our government for this mission because of his varied union experiences in the United Steelworkers," Clowes said. "He has the endorsement, not only of the Steelworkers, but of the AFL-CIO."

Kluz is to begin his mission for the State Department, in January, and is scheduled to spend three weeks in Japan before going on to India. He heads the District 20 office at Ambridge, which includes the Midland area locals.

Fix-It Shop Entered; Owner Finds No Loss

There was no apparent loss in a burglary discovered Friday at the Fix-It Shop, 732 St. Clair Ave., police reported.

George Freeman, the owner, told officers the shop was entered between 9:05 p.m. Thursday and 9:20 a.m. Friday by an intruder who forced the front door. He said a check indicated nothing was taken.

Ronald Brown, an employe, discovered the entry when reporting for work, officers said. Patrolman Orin C. Smith investigated.

Police said Adkins, whose driver's license had been revoked, was involved in a two - car crash on the Pennsylvania Ave. "Hill Rd." at 12:15 a. m. today.

Adkins was headed west about 40 miles an hour when he started to pass another westbound car driven by Charles G. Thompson, 27, of 911 Dresden Ave.

His 1958 sedan struck an icy spot and Adkins lost control with his car hitting a guardrail on the south side of the highway and careening back into the Thompson auto, officers reported.

An auto - truck collision at 7:19 p. m. at Pennsylvania Ave. and Palissey St. also damaged six hedges at the East End fire station, police said.

According to police, a MacBurney Pharmacy truck operated by David Schmidbauer, 17, of 818 Highland Ave. was headed east on Pennsylvania Ave. and the car operated by Herbert Hughes Jr., 19, of 430 Globe St. was headed north on Palissey St.

Hughes was unable to halt at the intersection because of the icy street, police were told. The front end of the Hughes car and the right front of the truck were damaged, officers said.

Junior Dale Salisbury, 36, of Point Marion, Pa., reported to police he was headed south on the freeway about 10:40 p. m. yesterday when his car started to slide.

Skybolt

40,000 feet and landed in the preselected target area hundreds of miles down range.

An official hailed the success as evidence that the highly complex missile can work despite what some critics have said about its capability.

However, today's missile was far from the finished product and much work would be needed to make it a reliable weapons system.

The Air Force and Douglas Co., Skybolt prime contractor, had hoped to fire the missile during the Bahamas talks this week between President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Macmillan because they were confident a success might have some bearing on the discussions. But political decisions apparently forced a delay until after completion of the meetings.

In order to launch the missile, the Air Force had to open the range—which had been closed for the Christmas holiday—and pay overtime wages to scores of tracking and support personnel.

Earlier this week, the Skybolt was the center of a bitter dispute between the United States and Great Britain. U.S. announcement of plans to abandon the Skybolt embittered the British, who had planned to mount the 1,000-mile missile on their Vulcan bombers as a deterrent measure.

Serviceman Beaten By 3

An investigation got under way early this morning by Hancock County sheriff's deputies into an apparent brawl in which a 25-year-old Chester GI was severely beaten.

Herman William Koeppen, 244 George St., Chester, an Army specialist stationed in Pittsburgh, was listed in "poor" condition today in City Hospital with wounds received about 4 this morning, apparently at a tavern on Route 30 east of Chester.

Deputies said preliminary investigation indicated Koeppen, home on furlough for the weekend, was involved in a fight with perhaps three other men but they are not certain where it happened.

Koeppen's injuries included deep cuts of the head that were probably inflicted when struck by a bottle. He lost a lot of blood, the sheriff's office said.

Officers investigating the beating said they discovered pools of blood at several taverns on Route 30 and also at a spot along the highway, and they still are attempting to pinpoint where the brawl took place.

Koeppen was rushed by ambulance to City Hospital at 5:49.

In addition to wounds of the head, the victim's hand was also injured, deputies said. Koeppen told officers this morning he was "beaten up by three men after visiting several taverns."

Weirton Driver's Car Skids Off Slick Road

A Weirton motorist escaped unhurt when his sedan skidded on snow - slickened Route 2 south of New Cumberland and came to rest against an ice cream store Friday afternoon at 3:45.

Hancock County sheriff's deputies said Larry E. Paolisso, 23, was northbound when the mishap occurred near the Town & Country Club.

They estimated $200 damage to Paolisso's 1955 model Chevrolet. There was no damage to the building.

Goodballot Gives New Terms To 2 On City's Boards

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet announced today he will return two incumbents for new terms on the Board of Health and the Board of Thompson Park Commissioners.

Dr. C. M. Mayberry will be appointed for a new five - year term on the Health Board and Atty. William H. Vodrey will be returned for a four - year term on the Park Board, both effective Jan. 1.

The current terms expire at midnight Dec. 31. City ordinances provide both appointments are subject to ratification by Council, a procedure which usually is automatic.

The terms are the only two which expire on municipal boards and commissions at the end of 1962.

Chester Mishap Damages 2 Autos

Two cars were heavily damaged in a near head-on collision on a narrow, snow - covered road near Chester Friday afternoon at 2:35, but both drivers escaped unhurt.

Hancock County sheriff's deputies said the accident involved a 1953 four - door sedan operated by James Leroy Williams, 20, of 266 Moore St., and a 1961 two-door sedan driven by Paul F. Dailey, 52, of Lisbon R.D. 3.

They collided at the crest of a hill in front of the Grandview School in Lawrenceville. Deputies said snowdrifts had narrowed the road to about one lane and neither driver had space to maneuver away from the crash.

Williams' car was towed away by a wrecker and there was also heavy damage to Dailey's Chevrolet Impala.

East Palestine Slates Sewer Rate Revision

EAST PALESTINE — Council at an informal session Friday night tentatively authorized commercial and industrial sewer rate charges based on the number of persons served rather than for units — such as schools, churches and potteries.

The change in billing and rates was sought by Squire, Sanders & Demsey, a Cleveland bond concern handling financial arrangements for a new sewage plant. Representatives of the firm said few communities now use the unit rate system.

A survey will be made on the number of persons served at the unit clients to determine the new rates.

It Seemed Like A Better Idea

Year-end adjournment of the United Nations General Assembly is hardly an occasion for bell-ringing and whistle-blowing. It's an old routine.

But it is an occasion for appraising what was done about what needed to be done in a controversial agency.

What needed to be done was to keep U.N. members from tearing out one another's throats. Beyond that, what needed to be done was to keep bright before the eyes of the world the ideal of nonviolence in settlement of international problems.

It is unavoidable that each threat of violence and each outbreak of violence should be taken as evidence of U.N. failure. There is still a gnawing distrust of collective security. The United Nations has not changed the nature of man nor has it done away with the concept of a world in which individual nations can do as they please, be it good or bad.

YET WHEN CONGRESS adjourns each year with much of its work undone, most of its dreams shattered, tripped up and hog-tied by obstructionists and muddlers, the American people don't sniff at it as a failure and demand that the 50 states go it alone.

When a police force has been unable to step all crime in its jurisdiction, no one demands that it throw in the sponge because no police force at all would be better than one that falls short of perfection.

For the most part, the American people now comprehend that the United Nations is an integral part of their own government's machinery of international relations. It was designed, set up and is being maintained as a functional agent of the U.S. government, which shares it with 109 other governments for the common advantage of all.

Its physical facilities and the bulk of its operating costs are furnished through the desire and the ability of the United States to give collective security a chance to prove itself better over the traditional practice of choosing up sides for another war.

THOSE WHO dismiss the United Nations as a failure, even as a mockery, because it hasn't relieved them of anxiety never think of the alternative, which would be reversion to an outworn order in which governments felt free time to seize any territory or ethnic group that took their fancy.

There were no debates, no inspections, no votes of censure afterward — just unrestrained violence.

After two world wars in which the United States felt called on to yield its manpower and treasure in fantastic quantities to sway the outcome, it seemed like a better idea to set up the United Nations, in the hope of avoiding a third world war, this one with nuclear weapons.

Its entire cost so far to this country may have been about the cost of carrying on one fortnight of World War II.

The United Nations has not been a thumping success. But as its delegates scatter for another year-end recess, the United Nations has not been a dismal failure. And it continues to be an integral part of U.S. foreign policy.

Snow Removal

Snow removal at its best is a tedious, back-breaking ordeal.

And the street department found its clean-up job at the last heavy fall even more complicated by the big piles shoved into the street in front of business establishments and some homes. When the snow became ice-encrusted the removal became even more difficult.

Snow has to be piled somewhere, to be sure, but the department undoubtedly would appreciate it being piled at the end of property lines, where possible, rather than in the street.

Maybe Not 'Ev And Charlie' But—

It will be questionable cheese-paring if the Republican National Committee lops off the television show of Senate Leader Everett M. Dirksen and House Leader Charles A. Halleck.

Word from Washington is that the committee chairman, Rep. William E. Miller, has been ordered to make a one-third cut in his budget and the $30,000 spent last year for the so-called "Ev and Charlie show" is being eyed as one thing the Republicans could do without.

Of course they could do without it.

They could do without Sen. Dirksen and Rep. Halleck even if they could go on with the show. Rep. William H. Ayres of Akron has been pointing out that these two are not necessarily the happiest choices for presenting the party image to the nation.

He means that their mastery of legislative techniques does not connote a mastery of image-presenting. It would be better, he thinks, all things considered, if the party utilized its wide range of membership on various committees to present a more variegated and possibly more photogenic image.

Getting rid of the "Ev and Charlie Show" by cutting it out of the budget would be burning down the barn to get the horse out. After the TV spectacular staged by President Kennedy and the "three stooges" the other night, Republicans should be hiring talent, not firing it.

Welcome Addition

All who had a part in their purchase and installation can rightfully stand up and take a bow.

With the scoreboards, enjoyable music by the high school combo and the first victory of the season Friday night, things are looking up at the MA.

This and That

One of the biggest health problems in the U.S. is tooth decay. Latest estimates show that half of all two-year-olds have one or more decayed teeth, and three or more by the time they reach school age. By the time he is 30 years old, the average American has only 12 healthy, unfilled teeth in his mouth.

The state of Oregon, with the greatest U.S. reserve of standing timber, has a billion-dollar forestry industry. Also, its salmon fishing industry, centered at Astoria, at the mouth of the Columbia River, is one of the world's largest.

Asia, the largest continent in the world, has the highest mountains, the deepest depressions, the greatest peninsulas, and some of the coldest and hottest regions in the world. It also has some of the driest and some of the wettest on earth, and some of the most densely as well as the most sparsely populated areas in the world.

Industrial experiments have shown that 19 per cent more energy is needed to do a job in noisy surroundings than in quiet. It takes more concentration to accomplish one's business in a noisy room, which means tenser muscles, stepped-up metabolism and increased consumption of oxygen — and this results in greater fatigue.

Here's Looking At You!

Reds Set Cuban Economic Buildup

By Victor Riesel

GENEVA

It is deceptively peaceful. Swans imperially impervious to the swirling snow paddle gracefully on the icy Rhone River. Along the Quai Des Bergues men meet and hurry through the sleet, over the bridges to hotel rooms and little restaurants to conspire or exchange information.

Victor Riesel

Here in the most concentrated repository of international data, men of the "bloc" and men of the NATO alliance meet officially in common councils of almost a hundred international agencies and try to pump each other — mostly, for the moment, about Cuba.

If one listens and digs, one discovers the Red bloc's specific plans for development of Cuba into a reverse West Berlin—a prosperous Communist outpost, a Soviet showpiece within our defense lines.

Here there is the evidence of Soviet plans for a bridge of big freighters over which to run hundreds of millions of dollars worth of heavy machinery into Cuba.

HERE YOU LEARN of new freight and passenger shipping lines being created for swift runs from Communists ports to Havana.

Here there is the detailed evidence of the Red quotas from each bloc country, with which Chairman Khrushchev hopes to make Cuba the most efficient, highly productive state in Latin America.

There is, for example, the report of a special meeting of Communist transocean shipping specialists aboard a holiday cruise ship, the Fritz Heckert. It is owned by the East German government. Those experts organized a four-nation Communist consortium which will set up a special Baltic Sea-Caribbean shipping company.

This joint regular shipping service begins operating from Baltic ports to Havana during the first week of 1963. Its first operation will be based on a fleet of 12 freighters. There will be four sailings a month out of the "Socialist ports." Mostly heavy machinery will be carried.

When the experts aboard the luxurious S.S. Fritz Heckert disclosed the new commercial fleet organization, they said this was "a reply to the U.S. attempt to crush Socalist Cuba . . . through economic pressure."

This was announced three weeks ago.

FASCINATING, to, is the creation of a new regular passenger service from the Baltic lands, East Germany, and the Polish port of Gdynia. There are three vessels on the Baltic-Cuban passenger run now.

One is the SS Baltika, which we covered when Chairman Khrushchev turned it into a personal yacht for his shoe pounding visit to the United Nations. The other ships are the SS Mikhail Kalinin and the SS Maria Ulyanova.

The latter is the latest to sail. It left Riga on Dec. 9 for Havana with an intermediate stop at Gdynia. Aboard was a contingent of young Cubans who had finished their retraining at Soviet technical schools and propaganda institutions.

There will be counterpart fleets created by the East German, the Polish, the Czech and Cuban governments. Each will run from another part of Europe. Each will carry untrained Cuban youths to Iron Curtain ports, and Soviet specialists and trained Cubans back to Havana. Thus they will be able to by-pass the more telltale commercial aviation carriers and routes.

As these fleets grow they will replace the ships chartered from other nations. Then the Soviets will be able ot move, in greater secrecy, even the heaviest of equipment—including whole factories.

Many of these plants will come from East Germany.

THIS EAST BERLIN government is expected to build in Cuba, within three years, at least 26 complete factories. They'll cost some $30 million. By the end of 1963 the East Germans will set up new industries run by German technicians. Among the scheduled plants are factories to weld electrodes, whip out electric motors and installations for the production of cement, vegetable oil, textiles, metal containers and sewing machines. This is not entirely for the Cuban domestic market. Rather the produce will be dumped inside Latin America.

Czechoslovakia's quota next year will be almost $100 million worth of complete factories, six steam turbine stations, and even automated machinery.

From Romania will come millions of dollars worth of oil equipment, road-building machinery, chemical products and 3,500 tractors. From Poland the quota includes storehouses, grain elevators, a ship repair and ship building yard at Mariel by 1964-65.

Thus it goes with the entire bloc, including Bulgaria, which has been assessed 10 power stations; and Hungary, which has been told to deliver telecommunications equipment.

Apparently the Soviets plan to stay a while.

Concrete is probably the world's most versatile building material. On a pound - for - pound basis, nearly twice as much concrete is used in the U.S. in a single year as all the wood, structural steel, brick, tile, aluminum, building glass, and other structural materials combined.

Frontier Strategy

Administration Military Policy Analyzed

So much discussion has been provoked by the Stewart Alsop-Charles Bartlett article in the Saturday Evening Post about the Cuban crisis that an article in the previous edition of that magazine by Stewart Also has been all but forgotten. But it raises not only the same question about government news management but even more serious issues of method and policy.

The President in his press conference disclaimed responsibility for what his "old friends," Alsop and Bartlett, wrote. But he cannot well disclaim this one, because it is based upon lengthy quotations from Defense Secretary McNamara. And it came at a time when Arthur Sylvester, speaking for the Defense Department, was saying that it was an administration plan to influence foreign policy through news management.

"Information," said Sylvester, "is power." It also came at a time when there were severe restrictions on normal contacts between the press and Defense and State Department officials.

In the McNamara article Alsop says that when the new defense secretary entered office he surrounded himself with a group of "intellectuals." These were individuals with skills in industry and academic life. Thus, a general or admiral is not an "intellectual." McNamara is the super "intellectual."

THESE CIVILIANS decided, according to the article, that the Eisenhower war strategy of "massive retaliation" in case of a Soviet attack was not a plan but a "horrible spasm." And so they have created a new plan, described as the "Doctrine of Controlled Response."

This would provide a series of "options" in case of a Communist attack. These would be arranged in a series of "buttons" for the President to press in case of attack. They would range from a war with conventional weapons to an all-out nuclear devastation of Communist cities and military installations.

The favored alternative would be an American response which would hit no cities but only military targets. Thus, after we had sustained the first blast we would destroy the capability of the Soviet to launch another. But such a survival would depend upon a vast system of shelters for our population.

This disclosure of our plans may well be intended to suggest to the Soviet leaders that they should consider a war in which they would limit their attack to our military establishments and spare our civilian population. This is called a "no-city" attack. Thus, this article would be a step in long-range, direct negotiation.

I am not sufficiently versed in military affairs to venture a judgment as to the wisdom of this plan of the "intellectuals." But a number of observations seem to be in order.

THE ADMINISTRATION seems to have adopted and announced a type of strategy created by people who have had no military experience prior to the coming of this administration. McNamara himself was selected, we may assume, because he had experience to qualify him to be a top production manager, responsible for buying military hardware of the best quality at the least cost.

Certainly, we have no reason to believe him to be a Napoleaon, a Clausewitz, a Bismarck, a Frederick the Great or a Gustavus Adolphus.

To allay any doubts because of McNamara's lack of military competence and presumably also to express fitting gratitude for getting an "exclusive" story, Alsop assures us that the defense secretary has "the highest intelligence quotient of any public official in this century."

This is taking in a lot of territory. For if McNamara towers so high above our present corp of officials, we might wonder why the "buttons" should not be removed from the White House to McNamara's office.

ALSOP MAKES CLEAR that there are military people, especially in the Air Force, who disagree with the plans of the "intellectuals." This is disquieting, because we all remember how the Bay of Pigs disaster occurred because the civilians ignored experienced military advice.

Moreover, it may be asked why a plan of such magnitude should not have been issued as a responsible public document rather than in a magazine article by a privileged private journalist.

New Hope For Old Venice

By John Ardagh

A new plan for developing greater Venice, to stop the old island city from decaying, is expected to be signed by the Italian president within a few weeks. It has been drawn up by the Venice Municipal Council, and after a long legal and administrative wrangle has just been approved by the government.

Dr. Ludovico de Santillana, a lecturer in architecture at Venice University, has explained the new subject.

There are three basic problems.

First, Venice is steadily sinking into the sea, at the rate of perhaps an inch every 10 years, and the sinking is beginning to damage the foundations of historic buildings.

Secondly, there is the mushroom growth of the huge mainland industrial suburb of Mestre, to a size much greater than old Venice itself. This is draining the life out of the old city.

Finally, there is the growth of tourism, trade and car ownership. All three are disrupting the equilibrium of the region—a problem that every modern city faces, but especially acute on a tiny island.

IT IS MISLEADING to say of Venetians, "How lucky they are—no cars." The new plan is based on the belief that unless old Venice can be given a dynamic modern life, it will become a decadent museum.

A previous municipal plan, that included drastic features such as the building of a new motorway to a point near St. Mark's and of 100-ft. office blocks that would have rivalled the dominance of St. Mark's dome and companile, was turned down by the government under pressure of public opinion.

But the new plan retains some features of the old-notably for a detailed house-by-house survey that will help preservation, and for a big new residential suburb in the marshes between Mestre and Venice, to help check the drift of population (4,000 a year recently) from Venice to Mestre, and to give the new marshlanders the psychological feeling of still belonging to the old historic island.

The plan aims to make old Venice the commercial and executive headquarters of the huge Mestre industrial complex, as the only way of keeping it a "living city." Tourism alone is not enough; too artificial.

The southwest corner of the island near the main car park, will be developed as a port and office center. The lagoon entrance point for tankers and cargo boats bound for Mestre will be changed from the Porto di Lido to the Porto de Malamocco, to keep them away from the island.

MESTRE-VENICE has now overtaken Naples to become the second port of Italy in volume of traffic (Genoa is still a long way ahead) and Mestre is Italy's leading railway center after Milan and Bologna.

There are other less official projects, some likely to be adopted, for improving transport between Venice and the mainland, by an underwater motorway from Mestre to Lido and by faster, smoother small boats serving new points like Fusina and Marco Polo airport.

The main aim is to dissuade people from bringing their cars into Venice, where parking space is already quite inadequate and there is clearly no room for new parks.

As for Venice sinking into the sea, one project is to fit gates at the lagoon entrance to control the height of the water—but this would raise dredging difficulties, and complicate Mestre harbor. An effective solution awaits a proper hydraulic survey of the lagoon, for which, strangely, there are no plans.

A campaign to get the Christian Democrat-Socialist city council to do something about this is the next objective of the powerful "Italian Nostra" presentation society, which did so much to defeat the old city plan and get the new one through—and also to check ugly modern building in old Venice. But if present problems are not solved, according to one view, Venice as we know it may have disappeared by the end of the century.

The much - used expression "feet of clay" owes its origin to the Bible, Daniel 2:33. The reference concerns an idol — "and the legs of iron, the feet part of iron and part of clay".

It Seemed Like A Better Idea

Year-end adjournment of the United Nations General Assembly is hardly an occasion for bell-ringing and whistle-blowing. It's an old routine.

But it is an occasion for appraising what was done about what needed to be done in a controversial agency.

What needed to be done was to keep U.N. members from tearing out one another's throats. Beyond that, what needed to be done was to keep bright before the eyes of the world the ideal of nonviolence in settlement of international problems.

It is unavoidable that each threat of violence and each outbreak of violence should be taken as evidence of U.N. failure. There is still a gnawing distrust of collective security. The United Nations has not changed the nature of man nor has it done away with the concept of a world in which individual nations can do as they please, be it good or bad.

YET WHEN CONGRESS adjourns each year with much of its work undone, most of its dreams shattered, tripped up and hog-tied by obstructionists and muddlers, the American people don't sniff at it as a failure and demand that the 50 states go it alone.

When a police force has been unable to stop all crime in its jurisdiction, no one demands that it throw in the sponge because no police force at all would be better than one that falls short of perfection.

For the most part, the American people now comprehend that the United Nations is an integral part of their own government's machinery of international relations. It was designed, set up and is being maintained as a functional agent of the U.S. government, which shares it with 109 other governments for the common advantage of all.

Its physical facilities and the bulk of its operating costs are furnished through the desire and the ability of the United States to give collective security a chance to prove itself better over the traditional practice of choosing up sides for another war.

THOSE WHO dismiss the United Nations as a failure, even as a mockery, because it hasn't relieved them of anxiety never think of the alternative, which would be reversion to an outworn order in which governments felt free time to seize any territory or ethnic group that took their fancy.

There were no debates, no inspections, no votes of censure afterward — just unrestrained violence.

After two world wars in which the United States felt called on to yield its manpower and treasure in fantastic quantities to sway the outcome, it seemed like a better idea to set up the United Nations, in the hope of avoiding a third world war, this one with nuclear weapons.

Its entire cost so far to this country may have been about the cost of carrying on one fortnight of World War II.

The United Nations has not been a thumping success. But as its delegates scatter for another year-end recess, the United Nations has not been a dismal failure. And it continues to be an integral part of U.S. foreign policy.

Snow Removal

Snow removal at its best is a tedious, back-breaking ordeal.

And the street department found its clean-up job at the last heavy fall even more complicated by the big piles shoved into the street in front of business establishments and some homes. When the snow became ice-encrusted the removal became even more difficult.

Snow has to be piled somewhere, to be sure, but the department undoubtedly would appreciate it being piled at the end of property lines, where possible, rather than in the street.

Maybe Not 'Ev And Charlie' But—

It will be questionable cheese-paring if the Republican National Committee lops off the television show of Senate Leader Everett M. Dirksen and House Leader Charles A. Halleck.

Word from Washington is that the committee chairman, Rep. William E. Miller, has been ordered to make a one-third cut in his budget and the $30,000 spent last year for the so-called "Ev and Charlie show" is being eyed as one thing the Republicans could do without.

Of course they could do without it.

They could do without Sen. Dirksen and Rep. Halleck even if they could go on with the show. Rep. William H. Ayres of Akron has been pointing out that these two are not necessarily the happiest choices for presenting the party image to the nation.

He means that their mastery of legislative techniques does not connote a mastery of image-presenting. It would be better, he thinks, all things considered, if the party utilized its wide range of membership on various committees to present a more variegated and possibly more photogenic image.

Getting rid of the "Ev and Charlie Show" by cutting it out of the budget would be burning down the barn to get the horse out. After the TV spectacular staged by President Kennedy and the "three stooges" the other night, Republicans should be hiring talent, not firing it.

Welcome Addition

All who had a part in their purchase and installation can rightfully stand up and take a bow.

With the scoreboards, enjoyable music by the high school combo and the first victory of the season Friday night, things are looking up at the MA.

This and That

One of the biggest health problems in the U.S. is tooth decay. Latest estimates show that half of all two-year-olds have one or more decayed teeth, and three or more by the time they reach school age. By the time he is 30 years old, the average American has only 12 healthy, unfilled teeth in his mouth.

The state of Oregon, with the greatest U.S. reserve of standing timber, has a billion-dollar forestry industry. Also, its salmon fishing industry, centered at Astoria, at the mouth of the Columbia River, is one of the world's largest.

Asia, the largest continent in the world, has the highest mountains, the deepest depressions, the greatest peninsulas, and some of the coldest and hottest regions in the world. It also has some of the driest and some of the wettest on earth, and some of the most densely as well as the most sparsely populated areas in the world.

Industrial experiments have shown that 19 per cent more energy is needed to do a job in noisy surroundings than in quiet. It takes more concentration to accomplish one's business in a noisy room, which means tenser muscles, stepped-up metabolism and increased consumption of oxygen — and this results in greater fatigue.

Reds Set Cuban Economic Buildup

By Victor Riesel

GENEVA

It is deceptively peaceful. Swans imperially impervious to the swirling snow paddle gracefully on the icy Rhone River. Along the Quai Des Bergues men meet and hurry through the sleet, over the bridges to hotel rooms and little restaurants to conspire or exchange information.

Victor Riesel

Here in the most concentrated repository of international data, men of the "bloc" and men of the NATO alliance meet officially in common councils of almost a hundred international agencies and try to pump each other — mostly, for the moment, about Cuba.

If one listens and digs, one discovers the Red bloc's specific plans for development of Cuba into a reverse West Berlin—a prosperous Communist outpost, a Soviet showpiece within our defense lines.

Here there is the evidence of Soviet plans for a bridge of big freighters over which to run hundreds of millions of dollars worth of heavy machinery into Cuba.

HERE YOU LEARN of new freight and passenger shipping lines being created for swift runs from Communists ports to Havana.

Here there is the detailed evidence of the Red quotas from each bloc country, with which Chairman Khrushchev hopes to make Cuba the most efficient, highly productive state in Latin America.

But the new plan retains some features of the old-notably for a detailed house-by-house survey that will help preservation, and for a big new residential suburb in the marshes between Mestre and Venice, to help check the drift of population (4,000 a year recently) from Venice to Mestre, and to give the new marshlanders the psychological feeling of still belonging to the old historic island.

The plan aims to make old Venice the commercial and executive headquarters of the huge Mestre industrial complex, as the only way of keeping it a "living city." Tourism alone is not enough; too artificial.

The southwest corner of the island near the main car park, will be developed as a port and office center. The lagoon entrance point for tankers and cargo boats bound for Mestre will be changed from the Porto di Lido to the Porto de Malamocco, to keep them away from the island.

MESTRE-VENICE has now overtaken Naples to become the second port of Italy in volume of traffic (Genoa is still a long way ahead) and Mestre is Italy's leading railway center after Milan and Bologna.

There are other less official projects, some likely to be adopted, for improving transport between Venice and the mainland, by an underwater motorway from Mestre to Lido and by faster, smoother small boats serving new points like Fusina and Marco Polo airport.

The main aim is to dissuade people from bringing their cars into Venice, where parking space is already quite inadequate and there is clearly no room for new parks.

As for Venice sinking into the sea, one project is to fit gates at the lagoon entrance to control the height of the water—but this would raise dredging difficulties, and complicate Mestre harbor. An effective solution awaits a proper hydraulic survey of the lagoon, for which, strangely, there are no plans.

A campaign to get the Christian Democrat-Socialist city council to do something about this is the next objective of the powerful "Italian Nostra" presentation society, which did so much to defeat the old city plan and get the new one through—and also to check ugly modern building in old Venice. But if present problems are not solved, according to one view, Venice as we know it may have disappeared by the end of the century.

The much - used expression "feet of clay" owes its origin to the Bible, Daniel 2:33. The reference concerns an idol — "and the legs of iron, the feet part of iron and part of clay".

Deliberations Resumed In Hoffa's Trial

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The complex James R. Hoffa conspiracy trial entered its third month today with a federal court jury, refreshed by a night's sleep, resuming its deliberations.

Judge William E. Miller allowed the six women and six male jurors three and a half hours to discuss the case late Friday. When no word was forthcoming from the jury room at the supper hour, he called an overnight recess.

Hoffa, president of the 1.5 million member Teamsters Union, was charged in a two-count indictment with conspiring to violate the Taft-Hartley Act by accepting undercover payments from a Michigan transport firm. The government said the payments were a bribe for labor peace.

Each charge constitutes a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum prison sentence of one year and a fine of up to $10,000.

Throughout the trial, which began Oct. 22, Hoffa maintained he received no illegal payments and never double-crossed Teamster drivers as the government charged.

The courtroom took on a relaxed appearance as everyone waited for word from the jury.

Hoffa, 49, spent the time alternately joking with newsmen and issuing sharp instructions to his attorneys and aides. Pointing out two previous federal court juries had acquitted him on other charges in past years, he said he had no doubts about the outcome.

The Taft - Hartley Act prohibits a union leader from receiving payments from a company whose employes he represents.

Appeal Made To Motorists Over Holiday

Traffic	69
Fires	14
Miscellaneous	3
Total	86

By The Associated Press

Millions of motorists headed for the highways today for visits during the extended Christmas holiday with a reminder from safety experts to drive with extreme caution.

Heavy snow fell in wide sections of the Eastern half of the nation and driving conditions were hazardous in many areas. Most dangerous spots reported by the Weather Bureau were from the middle Atlantic coastal states northward.

The early count of traffic deaths appeared running about normal for a nonholiday period.

Since the start of the 102-hour holiday period at 6 p.m. local time Friday, 34 persons were killed in traffic accidents. Fires claimed the lives of six persons, including the wife and two children of Associated Press newsman Walter R. Mears in a blaze which swept the Mears' new home in Alexandria, Va.

The National Safety Council has estimated that 650 to 750 persons may be killed in traffic accidents during the four-day holiday, ending at midnight Tuesday.

Council officials said the death toll could be held lower if motorists obey traffic regulations. They cited drinking and speed as the major causes of accidents on the highway.

The council said that in a 102-hour nonholiday weekend, traffic deaths would total 470. However, an Associated Press survey covering a four-day period from 6 p.m. Dec. 7 to midnight Dec. 11 showed 371 fatalities on the highway. It also showed 64 persons lost their lives in fires and 76 others were killed in miscellaneous accidents, for an over-all total of 511.

In last year's three-day Christmas holiday period, 524 persons were killed in traffic mishaps. The record traffic death toll for any holiday was 706 during the four-day Christmas holiday of 1946.

Deliberations Resumed In Hoffa's Trial

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The complex James R. Hoffa conspiracy trial entered its third month today with a federal court jury, refreshed by a night's sleep, resuming its deliberations.

Judge William E. Miller allowed the six women and six male jurors three and a half hours to discuss the case late Friday. When no word was forthcoming from the jury room at the supper hour, he called an overnight recess.

Hoffa, president of the 1.5 million member Teamsters Union, was charged in a two-count indictment with conspiring to violate the Taft-Hartley Act by accepting undercover payments from a Michigan transport firm. The government said the payments were a bribe for labor peace.

Each charge constitutes a misdemeanor punishable by a maximum prison sentence of one year and a fine of up to $10,000.

Throughout the trial, which began Oct. 22, Hoffa maintained he received no illegal payments and never double-crossed Teamster drivers as the government charged.

The courtroom took on a relaxed appearance as everyone waited for word from the jury.

Hoffa, 49, spent the time alternately joking with newsmen and issuing sharp instructions to his attorneys and aides. Pointing out two previous federal court juries had acquitted him on other charges in past years, he said he had no doubts about the outcome.

The Taft - Hartley Act prohibits a union leader from receiving payments from a company whose employes he represents.

Appeal Made To Motorists Over Holiday

Traffic	69
Fires	14
Miscellaneous	3
Total	86

By The Associated Press

Millions of motorists headed for the highways today for visits during the extended Christmas holiday with a reminder from safety experts to drive with extreme caution.

Heavy snow fell in wide sections of the Eastern half of the nation and driving conditions were hazardous in many areas. Most dangerous spots reported by the Weather Bureau were from the middle Atlantic coastal states northward.

The early count of traffic deaths appeared running about normal for a nonholiday period.

Since the start of the 102-hour holiday period at 6 p.m. local time Friday, 34 persons were killed in traffic accidents. Fires claimed the lives of six persons, including the wife and two children of Associated Press newsman Walter R. Mears in a blaze which swept the Mears' new home in Alexandria, Va.

The National Safety Council has estimated that 650 to 750 persons may be killed in traffic accidents during the four-day holiday, ending at midnight Tuesday.

Council officials said the death toll could be held lower if motorists obey traffic regulations. They cited drinking and speed as the major causes of accidents on the highway.

The council said that in a 102-hour nonholiday weekend, traffic deaths would total 470. However, an Associated Press survey covering a four-day period from 6 p.m. Dec. 7 to midnight Dec. 11 showed 371 fatalities on the highway. It also showed 64 persons lost their lives in fires and 76 others were killed in miscellaneous accidents, for an over-all total of 511.

In last year's three-day Christmas holiday period, 524 persons were killed in traffic mishaps. The record traffic death toll for any holiday was 706 during the four-day Christmas holiday of 1946.

Mother's 9 Children Pool Funds For Her Yule Trip

By ROBERT HOLTON

SAYVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. John Hayden is packing her bags for a Christmas Eve flight to see her parents in California for the first time in 18 years—thanks to nine little "sneaks."

That is how the Long Island mother, 42, good-naturedly describes her children who pooled their resources for months to finance the trip without letting her know about it.

The children, ranging in ages from 16 years to 28 months, turned the trick with dimes, nickels and pennies earned in a variety of ways. Their father, John Hayden, learned of the campaign only recently.

He added a goodly sum.

"I was flabbergasted when I learned the other day what they had done," Mrs. Hayden said. "And the worst part of it all was that they did it right under my nose without me knowing a thing about it."

The two eldest Hayden children, John, 16, and Maureen, 15, thought it would be nice if their mother could visit her parents in Santa Ana for a week.

Together they worked up the plan of having all the children chip in each week to pay the fare. That was last summer. They passed the idea on to their sisters and brothers, and the campaign was under way.

John washed dishes at a diner one day a week, and Maureen worked as a counter girl. Virtually all of their earnings went into the fund.

Dennis, 14, contributed the money he had earned from lawn cutting and other odd jobs. Nicholas, 12, donated a great deal of his newspaper route profits. Margaret, 9, Donald, 8, Michael, 6, and Thomas, 5, chipped in dimes, nickels and pennies from their allowances and money given them for work around the house.

"Even 18-month-old Christopher did his share," Mrs. Hayden said. "If he found any coins on the floor or on a dresser, he would put them in the piggy bank for the trip.

Mrs. Hayden said she will visit for a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rueben C. Molberg, whom she hasn't visited since 1944.

"They really never expected me to be able to come out to see them, what with me having so many children and always having a baby on the way," she said.

Will she miss the children?

"This will be the first time away from them on a holiday, and I certainly will miss them," she said.

"I doubt that they will miss me," she added with a smile. "They're going to be too busy keeping house with their father."

Mother's 9 Children Pool Funds For Her Yule Trip

By ROBERT HOLTON

SAYVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. John Hayden is packing her bags for a Christmas Eve flight to see her parents in California for the first time in 18 years—thanks to nine little "sneaks."

That is how the Long Island mother, 42, good-naturedly describes her children who pooled their resources for months to finance the trip without letting her know about it.

The children, ranging in ages from 16 years to 28 months, turned the trick with dimes, nickels and pennies earned in a variety of ways. Their father, John Hayden, learned of the campaign only recently.

He added a goodly sum.

"I was flabbergasted when I learned the other day what they had done," Mrs. Hayden said. "And the worst part of it all was that they did it right under my nose without me knowing a thing about it."

The two eldest Hayden children, John, 16, and Maureen, 15, thought it would be nice if their mother could visit her parents in Santa Ana for a week.

Together they worked up the plan of having all the children chip in each week to pay the fare. That was last summer. They passed the idea on to their sisters and brothers, and the campaign was under way.

John washed dishes at a diner one day a week, and Maureen worked as a counter girl. Virtually all of their earnings went into the fund.

Dennis, 14, contributed the money he had earned from lawn cutting and other odd jobs. Nicholas, 12, donated a great deal of his newspaper route profits. Margaret, 9, Donald, 8, Michael, 6, and Thomas, 5, chipped in dimes, nickels and pennies from their allowances and money given them for work around the house.

"Even 18-month-old Christopher did his share," Mrs. Hayden said. "If he found any coins on the floor or on a dresser, he would put them in the piggy bank for the trip.

Mrs. Hayden said she will visit for a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rueben C. Molberg, whom she hasn't visited since 1944.

"They really never expected me to be able to come out to see them, what with me having so many children and always having a baby on the way," she said.

Will she miss the children?

"This will be the first time away from them on a holiday, and I certainly will miss them," she said.

"I doubt that they will miss me," she added with a smile. "They're going to be too busy keeping house with their father."

Driver Jailed As Aftermath Of City Crash

A 52-year-old East Liverpool man was jailed by police as an aftermath of a collision Friday afternoon at E. 3rd and Market Sts. that involved this auto and a big tractor rig.

John J. Pardell, 408 E. 3rd St., faces a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol. It was filed by Patrolman Orin C. Smith after investigation of a crash at 12:52 p.m. that involved Pardell's 1956 two - door sedan and a 1960 model tractor operated by Richard List, 27, of New Castle.

Officers said Pardell was traveling south on Market St. and turning east onto E. 3rd St. He said the traffic light at the intersection was in his favor and that the rig collided with his auto, officers reported.

The New Castle trucker told police he was traveling west on 3rd St. when Pardell's auto came through the traffic light and struct his rig. List insisted the traffic light was in his favor, police said.

The crash caused heavy damage to the left rear quarter panel of Pardell's auto, but there was no damage to the rig, officers said.

As Municipal Court is closed today, Pardell's only opportunity for disposition of his case before Christmas will come in a brief session of Municipal Court Monday at 9 a.m.

Atty. Lawrence W. Smith Jr. will preside in the absence of Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, who is on the last week of his annual vacation.

Council Given Data For Bids On Insurance

Safety - Service Director Robert Owen turned over to Council Friday night data on bids which he and Mayor Bert H. Goodballet received Dec. 14 on a life and hospital insurance program for city employes.

The director commented that "it is up to Council now to decide if you want an insurance program and to provide the funds if the decision is affirmative."

The director explained that Council's initial legislation authorized the Board of Control, comprised of Owen and Goodballet, to call for bids, but did not provide for signing a contract In addition, funds would have to be on hand to finance the program before an agreement could be signed, he said.

Thirteen firms submitted bids, but four later were disqualified for not complying with the city's specifications.

The Ohio Cities Insurance Co. of Columbus submitted the apparent low bid on life insurance, offering it at $1.10 per month per employe. The city's plan would provide $1,000 life insurance for workers under 65 and $500 coverage for those over 65.

The Northeast Life Insurance Co. of New York submitted the apparent low offer on an employe hospital, surgical and medical plan, with a bid of $3.18 per month per person.

The combined premiums for both plans, using the figures of the apparent low bidders, total $4.28½ per month.

Other total bids on both life and hospital insurance are: Travelers Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn.; $5.51; Continental Insurance Co. of Chicago, $7.63; United Benefit Insurance Co. of Omaha, $5.97, and Hartford Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn., $6.28.

Two bid on only the hospital plan. The Railway Employes Insurance Co. of Columbus filed a $4.46 offer and the Associated Hospital Services, Inc., of Youngstown bid $5.75.

Owen furnished copies of the data to each councilmen. The members made no comment, indicating they will study the figures prior to the first 1963 session Jan. 7.

Capt. Edward J. Burke, in a telegram to the commissioners Friday, said a safety factor is involved since the new runway is 2,500 feet longer than the present runway used by jets.

Burke, a pilot for Allegheny Airlines, also criticized the FAA for not foreseeing problems that will delay even longer the opening of the runway for instrument landings. He said the County Commissioners should have opened the runway for visible landings on the originally scheduled day, Nov. 15.

Driver Jailed As Aftermath Of City Crash

A 52-year-old East Liverpool man was jailed by police as an aftermath of a collision Friday afternoon at E. 3rd and Market Sts. that involved this auto and a big tractor rig.

John J. Pardell, 408 E. 3rd St., faces a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol. It was filed by Patrolman Orin C. Smith after investigation of a crash at 12:52 p.m. that involved Pardell's 1956 two - door sedan and a 1960 model tractor operated by Richard List, 27, of New Castle.

Officers said Pardell was traveling south on Market St. and turning east onto E. 3rd St. He said the traffic light at the intersection was in his favor and that the rig collided with his auto, officers reported.

The New Castle trucker told police he was traveling west on 3rd St. when Pardell's auto came through the traffic light and struct his rig. List insisted the traffic light was in his favor, police said.

The crash caused heavy damage to the left rear quarter panel of Pardell's auto, but there was no damage to the rig, officers said.

As Municipal Court is closed today, Pardell's only opportunity for disposition of his case before Christmas will come in a brief session of Municipal Court Monday at 9 a.m.

Atty. Lawrence W. Smith Jr. will preside in the absence of Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, who is on the last week of his annual vacation.

Council Given Data For Bids On Insurance

Safety - Service Director Robert Owen turned over to Council Friday night data on bids which he and Mayor Bert H. Goodballet received Dec. 14 on a life and hospital insurance program for city employes.

The director commented that "it is up to Council now to decide if you want an insurance program and to provide the funds if the decision is affirmative."

The director explained that Council's initial legislation authorized the Board of Control, comprised of Owen and Goodballet, to call for bids, but did not provide for signing a contract In addition, funds would have to be on hand to finance the program before an agreement could be signed, he said.

Thirteen firms submitted bids, but four later were disqualified for not complying with the city's specifications.

The Ohio Cities Insurance Co. of Columbus submitted the apparent low bid on life insurance, offering it at $1.10 per month per employe. The city's plan would provide $1,000 life insurance for workers under 65 and $500 coverage for those over 65.

The Northeast Life Insurance Co. of New York submitted the apparent low offer on an employe hospital, surgical and medical plan, with a bid of $3.18 per month per person.

The combined premiums for both plans, using the figures of the apparent low bidders, total $4.28½ per month.

Other total bids on both life and hospital insurance are: Travelers Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn.; $5.51; Continental Insurance Co. of Chicago, $7.63; United Benefit Insurance Co. of Omaha, $5.97, and Hartford Insurance Co. of Hartford, Conn., $6.28.

Two bid on only the hospital plan. The Railway Employes Insurance Co. of Columbus filed a $4.46 offer and the Associated Hospital Services, Inc., of Youngstown bid $5.75.

Owen furnished copies of the data to each councilmen. The members made no comment, indicating they will study the figures prior to the first 1963 session Jan. 7.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A safety chairman for the Air line Pilots Association has blasted the Federal Aviation Agency and the Allegheny County Commissioners for delaying the opening of a $12 million jet runway at Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

Capt. Edward J. Burke, in a telegram to the commissioners Friday, said a safety factor is involved since the new runway is 2,500 feet longer than the present runway used by jets.

Burke, a pilot for Allegheny Airlines, also criticized the FAA for not foreseeing problems that will delay even longer the opening of the runway for instrument landings. He said the County Commissioners should have opened the runway for visible landings on the originally scheduled day, Nov. 15.

The commissioners have delayed the opening while petitioning the FAA for federal assistance in case any noise damage suits result in the future. The petition was recently denied.

Massillon Comes To Town Tonight

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

"C" stands for consistency and Cline. East Liverpool's Dean Cline fired in 31 points for his third high - scoring effort in a row to lead the Potters to their first victory of the 1962-63 campaign.

The 64-46 decision over Wheeling Linsly Friday night before about 750 fans at Memorial Auditorium probably was one of the easiest the Potters will come up with in some time.

Tonight the Blue and White is expected to have rougher going when the Massillon Tigers come to town.

THE TIGERS broke into the win column for the first Friday night by topping Salem 70-62 at Massillon. Last night's game at Massillon, like tonight's battle, is in the Big 8 conference. Massillon had lost two straight before clawing Salem.

A reserve tilt at 7 will get the action under way tonight, with the varsity game to start about 8:30.

East Liverpool wasn't at its Best Friday night, as Coach Jim Harris will quickly agree, but the Potters didn't have to be to get by the Wheeling five which came here with a 2-2 record.

THE VICTORY ended the long drought for Harris and his squad which had lost four straight close ones up until last night.

Cline again was the standout for the Potters and had he not been missing at times could have wound up with a few more points. As it was he scored 31, which followed games of 29 against Warren and the same total at Wellsville last Saturday night.

Friday's outburst gives Cline 117 points in five games or an average of 23.4. He hit on 12 field goals and seven of 10 foul shots and made seven straight fouls before missing his final attempt of the evening. His best period was the second when he garnered 12 points.

RANDY Stover, the 6-foot-3 junior who broke into the lineup in the second period when Ed Prentice got into foul trouble, proved a pretty decent spot player by hooping 10 points, all in the second quarter. Prentice dropped in eight markers and Roger Linville added seven.

Frank McComas had only three points and didn't score a field goal, but at times proved strong off the backboards. Dave Bowersock, the other Potter starter, also failed to score from the field.

The Potters got off to a slow start and trailed during the early going, but managed to struggle to a 13-11 first quarter lead.

A FIELDER by John Jelacic tied the score at 13-13, but Stover's three - point play put East Liverpool in front 16-13 and the Potters were off to their first victory of the season.

Cline added two fouls and a field goal and the Potters moved into a 20-13 lead and didn't have much to worry about after that.

SHOOTING percentages were not too good for either team, with East Liverpool hitting 22 of 68 for 32 per cent and Linsly showing about the same mark with 18 of 57 for 31.

No member of Coach Eudie Joseph's team made it into the double figures. Ed Poor was high with nine markers, while Wilson Wanner dropped in eight.

1st Regular Season Defeat Since 1961

By ANDY NUZZO

The Aliquippa Quips halted the 32-game regular season winning skein of the Midland Leopards, 54-44, before a good crowd at Aliquippa Junior High School gymnasium Friday night.

The loss was the first in regular season play for Midland since they dropped a decision to Beaver in the latter part of the 1960-61 season which was Hank Kuzma's first at Midland.

The Leopards trailed throughout the game as they suffered their first loss of the season in six starts.

Frank Janosik's Quips copped their sixth win in seven games this year.

The big thorn in the Leopard side was Aliquippa's 6-3 senior forward, Darryl Meachem. He poured in 26 points on seven fielders and 12 of 16 free throws and was the only Quip player to sink a free throw.

In the second half, when the Leopards outscored Aliquippa from the field, Meachem kept the Quips in the lead with his steady foul shooting.

Actually, the foul shooting of Meachem provided the Quips with their wide margin of victory. Aliquippa had only one field goal more than the Leopards, sinking 21 of 59 attempts for 36 per cent. Midland hit on 20 of 54 field goal attempts for 37 per cent.

Midland had trouble finding the range in the first half, sinking only seven of 27 field goal attempts. The Quips took advantage of the early Leopard lapse and built the lead they held throughout the game.

Leading the Midland attack once again was 6-2 senior center Bill Sallis. He meshed 19 points on eight fielders and three of six free throws. He was the only Leopard who did consistent work on the boards.

Bob Pipkin, 6-2 senior forward, dropped in 12 markers and did a good job on the boards for the Quips, along with teammates Meachem and 6-3 junior forward, Tim Plodinec. The Quip domination of the boards was a key factory in their victory.

Aliquippa jumped off to a quick 12-5 lead in the opening period, as the Leopards had trouble finding the range.

In the second period the Quips had a 14-7 bulge when Midland made an attempt to overtake them.

Sophomore forward Ron Brown, 6-2, swished a jumper from the side and Sallis added three free throws to cut the Quip margin to 14-12, with 6:07 left in the half.

But Aliquippa fought the Leopards off and increased their lead to 24-18 at halftime.

After Meachem opened the second half with a lay-up, the Leopards again went to work on the Quip lead. Sallis meshed a jumper from the side, 6-3 sophomore Sim Hall swished one from the foul line, and Sallis came back with a lay-up to cut the Aliquippa margin to four points, 28-24, with 5:58 remaining in the third period.

But once again Aliquippa would not let the Leopards overtake them and moved out to a 36-30 lead by the end of the third period.

Meachem opened the scoring in the final period by sinking a free throw. Midland then started to use a half-court press and Sallis sank two baskets to cut the Quip lead to 37-34.

For the third time Aliquippa denied the Leopards and scored nine consecutive points to take a commanding 46-34 lead. Meachem dropped in four of the nine points and Aliquippa seemed to have the game in the bag with a little over three minutes remaining in the game.

The Leopards, fighting desperately to get back into the game, went into a full-court press and reeled off six straight points on baskets by 6-1 senior guard Henry Slappy, 5-11 senior forward Gary Perkins, and Sallis to cut Quip lead to 46-40 with three minutes remaining.

But Meachem pulled Aliquippa out to a safe lead. He sank a lay-up and four free throws while Sallis and Perkins each sank two-pointers and the Quips had a safe 52-44 lead with 33 seconds remaining. Mervin Steals' basket in the last seconds concluded the scoring.

The game was an uphill battle for Midland. They did not make a great deal of mistakes, but the ones they made proved to be costly. Each time they had a chance to overtake the Quips they would come up with an errant play.

In the preliminary, Ed Olkowski's Midland reserve squad was handed its second loss of the season when the Aliquippa Jayvees handed them a 56-39 lacing.

High scorers of the game were Matt Giles and John Tazel of Aliquippa. They had 17 and 13 points respectively. Ray Oliver led Midland with 11 points, followed closely by Bill Haggerty with 10 markers.

This double loss was the first suffered by Midland since Kuzma became head coach.

Midland's next appearance will be at home when they host Martins Ferry, Munhall, and Pittsburgh South Hills Catholic in the Midland Holiday Tourney on Dec. 28 and 29.

WVU Tops Oregon State, Plays Kentucky In Finals

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rod Thorn, star playmaker for West Virginia's basketball team, has a tendency to worry about his own performances. He has worried himself sick because of a bad night.

But the way he's going, the 6-foot-4 star is proving only a thorn in the side of the Mountaineers' opponents while making them fret over his solid floor play and slick shooting eye.

Friday night, Thorn scored 18 points and led the seventh-ranked Mountaineers to a 70-65 victory over Oregon State in the opening round of the University of Kentucky Invitational Tournament.

The host Kentucky Wildcats, ranked ninth in the latest Associated Press poll, overpowered Iowa, 94-69. The winners will meet for the championship tonight.

While two members of the college top ten came through handsomely, two others fell by the wayside. Second-ranked Duke was knocked off for the second straight time as Miami of Florida edged the Blue Devils, 71-69. And sixth-ranked Colorado was beaten by Arizona State, 71-53.

In other leading games, Southern California boosted its record to 8-0 by whipping Nebraska, 58-49; in the Holiday Classic at Houston, the Michigan Wolverines outlasted Houston 90-88, in four overtimes and Texas A&M defeated Louisiana State, 67-61; Utah beat Michigan State, 88-79; Oklahoma rallied to defeat Purdue, 80-79; Kansas State snapped a five-game losing streak with an 88-72 conquest of Indiana and Stanford turned back Wyoming 81-62.

Thorn, hot on floor play in the first half when he scored only six points, found his shooting eye after the intermission after Terry Baker, the college football All-America, sparked an Oregon State comeback.

Mike McCoy's jump shot with five seconds to go was the winner for Miami on its home court. Duke got off to a fast start and led 16-6 at the 5-minute mark. The Hurricanes narrowed the margin to 37-36 at halftime.

McCoy wound up with 26 points while Jay Buckley was high for Duke with 16.

Arizona state used a strong defense and tremendous second half rebounding to trounce Colorado at Tempe, Ariz. It was the Buffs' first setback after five victories.

Slipping behind in the first quarter and trailing the rest of the way, Beaver Local bowed to once-beaten Columbiana, 66-49, Friday night despite a 21-point outburst by veteran George Gaydos.

Playing their third straight home game, the Beavers failed to stop Columbiana's balanced attack and their record fell to 1-3 with one game remaining before the 1963 segment of their schedule.

Carter Predicts He'll Chill Foe Tonight In 46 Seconds

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay, who calls himself the "loudmouth of the heavyweight division," is just a piker compared to Rubin (Hurricane) Carter, the latest sensation of the busy middleweight class.

Cocky Cassius predicts the round in which his opponents "must fall." Carter is using seconds to measure the time he gives his foes.

Tonight, at Madison Square Garden and on national television (ABC 10 p.m., EST), Carter, a 3-1 favorite, aims to annihilate steel-chinned Gomeo Grennan of Bimini in 46 seconds.

Why 46:

The knockout record for national television is 47 seconds and the Paterson, N.J., clouter aims to break it. The quickie mark was established by heavyweight Mike DeJohn when he belted out Charley Powell at Syracuse, N.Y., Nov. 6, 1959.

Carter thought he broke the record when he flattened middleweight contender Florentino Fernandez of Cuba in 69 seconds at the Garden on Oct. 27. He thought the record was 1 minute, 47 seconds.

"I knew I could knock out Fernandez real fast, almost as soon as I hit him," said Carter, "so I was taking my time. When I blasted him out in 69 seconds I thought sure I had a new record. But later Carmine (manager Carmine Tedeschi) told me I missed it. I won't miss it this time. I saw Brennan fight Skeeter McClure. He'll go faster than Fernandez, you can count on it."

In 13 months of pro fighting, the 25-year-old muscleman has racked up an 11-2 record, all of the victories by knockouts.

Brennan has a 52-75 record, including 27 knockouts.

Even Scenery Change Doesn't Help Tapers

By The Associated Press

Even a change of scenery could not help the Philadelphia Tapers.

For the fourth time in as many nights, the Tapers went down to defeat at the hands of Kansas City Friday night as the first-place Steers extended their American Basketball League winning skein to nine.

Kansas City edged Philadelphia 109-107 at Kiel Auditorium in St. Louis. The three previous games were held in Kansas City.

In the only other ABL game played Friday, the Oakland Oaks turned back the Chicago Majors 128-122. The scheduled Long Beach at Pittsburgh game was postponed to a later date.

Gift-Giving Spirit Takes Unique Bounce

PARKER, Pa. (AP)—The gift-giving spirit, traditional in this Christmas season, made an unexpected appearance on the basketball court at Allegheny-Clarion Valley High School Friday night.

In the third period of a game against visiting Victory Joint High School, A-C's Jack Master grabbed a jump ball, dribbled down the court and made a perfect lay-up—right into the other team's basket.

A few minutes later, Victory Joint's Pete Bixler, still chuckling over his opponent's mistake, broke through a full-court press to score—and handed the two points back to A-C.

Allegheny-Clarion won 68-55.

Massillon Comes To Town Tonight

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

"C" stands for consistency and Cline. East Liverpool's Dean Cline fired in 31 points for his third high - scoring effort in a row to lead the Potters to their first victory of the 1962-63 campaign.

The 64-46 decision over Wheeling Linsly Friday night before about 750 fans at Memorial Auditorium probably was one of the easiest the Potters will come up with in some time.

Tonight the Blue and White is expected to have rougher going when the Massillon Tigers come to town.

THE TIGERS broke into the win column for the first Friday night by topping Salem 70-62 at Massillon. Last night's game at Massillon, like tonight's battle, is in the Big 8 conference. Massillon had lost two straight before clawing Salem.

A reserve tilt at 7 will get the action under way tonight, with the varsity game to start about 8:30.

East Liverpool wasn't at its Best Friday night, as Coach Jim Harris will quickly agree, but the Potters didn't have to be to get by the Wheeling five which came here with a 2-2 record.

THE VICTORY ended the long drought for Harris and his squad which had lost four straight close ones up until last night.

Cline again was the standout for the Potters and had he not been missing at times could have wound up with a few more points. As it was he scored 31, which followed games of 29 against Warren and the same total at Wellsville last Saturday night.

Friday's outburst gives Cline 117 points in five games or an average of 23.4. He hit on 12 field goals and seven of 10 foul shots and made seven straight fouls before missing his final attempt of the evening. His best period was the second when he garnered 12 points.

RANDY Stover, the 6-foot-3 junior who broke into the lineup in the second period when Ed Prentice got into foul trouble, proved a pretty decent spot player by hooping 10 points, all in the second quarter. Prentice dropped in eight markers and Roger Linville added seven.

Frank McComas had only three points and didn't score a field goal, but at times proved strong off the backboards. Dave Bowersock, the other Potter starter, also failed to score from the field.

The Potters got off to a slow start and trailed during the early going, but managed to struggle to a 13-11 first quarter lead.

A FIELDER by John Jelacic tied the score at 13-13, but Stover's three - point play put East Liverpool in front 16-13 and the Potters were off to their first victory of the season.

Cline added two fouls and a field goal and the Potters moved into a 20-13 lead and didn't have much to worry about after that.

SHOOTING percentages were not too good for either team, with East Liverpool hitting 22 of 68 for 32 per cent and Linsly showing about the same mark with 18 of 57 for 31.

No member of Coach Eudie Joseph's team made it into the double figures. Ed Poor was high with nine markers, while Wilson Wanner dropped in eight.

1st Regular Season Defeat Since 1961

By ANDY NUZZO

The Aliquippa Quips halted the 32-game regular season winning skein of the Midland Leopards, 54-44, before a good crowd at Aliquippa Junior High School gymnasium Friday night.

The loss was the first in regular season play for Midland since they dropped a decision to Beaver in the latter part of the 1960-61 season which was Hank Kuzma's first at Midland.

The Leopards trailed throughout the game as they suffered their first loss of the season in six starts.

The big thorn in the Leopard side was Aliquippa's 6-3 senior forward, Darryl Meachem. He poured in 26 points on seven fielders and 12 of 16 free throws and was the only Quip player to sink a free throw.

In the second half, when the Leopards outscored Aliquippa from the field, Meachem kept the Quips in the lead with his steady foul shooting.

Actually, the foul shooting of Meachem provided the Quips with their wide margin of victory. Aliquippa had only one field goal more than the Leopards, sinking 21 of 59 attempts for 36 per cent. Midland hit on 20 of 54 field goal attempts for 37 per cent.

Midland had trouble finding the range in the first half, sinking only seven of 27 field goal attempts. The Quips took advantage of the early Leopard lapse and built the lead they held throughout the game.

Leading the Midland attack once again was 6-2 senior center Bill Sallis. He meshed 19 points on eight fielders and three of six free throws. He was the only Leopard who did consistent work on the boards.

Bob Pipkin, 6-2 senior forward, dropped in 12 markers and did a good job on the boards for the Quips, along with teammates Meachem and 6-3 junior forward, Tim Plodinec. The Quip domination of the boards was a key factory in their victory.

Aliquippa jumped off to a quick 12-5 lead in the opening period, as the Leopards had trouble finding the range.

In the second period the Quips had a 14-7 bulge when Midland made an attempt to overtake them.

Sophomore forward Ron Brown, 6-2, swished a jumper from the side and Sallis added three free throws to cut the Quip margin to 14-12, with 6:07 left in the half.

After Meachem opened the second half with a lay-up, the Leopards again went to work on the Quip lead. Sallis meshed a jumper from the side, 6-3 sophomore Sim Hall swished one from the foul line, and Sallis came back with a lay-up to cut the Aliquippa margin to four points, 28-24, with 5:58 remaining in the third period.

But once again Aliquippa would not let the Leopards overtake them and moved out to a 36-30 lead by the end of the third period.

Meachem opened the scoring in the final period by sinking a free throw. Midland then started to use a half-court press and Sallis sank two baskets to cut the Quip lead to 37-34.

For the third time Aliquippa denied the Leopards and scored nine consecutive points to take a commanding 46-34 lead. Meachem dropped in four of the nine points and Aliquippa seemed to have the game in the bag with a little over three minutes remaining in the game.

The Leopards, fighting desperately to get back into the game, went into a full-court press and reeled off six straight points on baskets by 6-1 senior guard Henry Slappy, 5-11 senior forward Gary Perkins, and Sallis to cut Quip lead to 46-40 with three minutes remaining.

But Meachem pulled Aliquippa out to a safe lead. He sank a lay-up and four free throws while Sallis and Perkins each sank two-pointers and the Quips had a safe 52-44 lead with 33 seconds remaining. Mervin Steals' basket in the last seconds concluded the scoring.

The game was an uphill battle for Midland. They did not make a great deal of mistakes, but the ones they made proved to be costly. Each time they had a chance to overtake the Quips they would come up with an errant play.

In the preliminary, Ed Olkowski's Midland reserve squad was handed its second loss of the season when the Aliquippa Jayvees handed them a 56-39 lacing.

High scorers of the game were Matt Giles and John Tazel of Aliquippa. They had 17 and 13 points respectively. Ray Oliver led Midland with 11 points, followed closely by Bill Haggerty with 10 markers.

This double loss was the first suffered by Midland since Kuzma became head coach.

Midland's next appearance will be at home when they host Martins Ferry, Munhall, and Pittsburgh South Hills Catholic in the Midland Holiday Tourney on Dec. 28 and 29.

WVU Tops Oregon State, Plays Kentucky In Finals

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rod Thorn, star playmaker for West Virginia's basketball team, has a tendency to worry about his own performances. He has worried himself sick because of a bad night.

But the way he's going, the 6-foot-4 star is proving only a thorn in the side of the Mountaineers' opponents while making them fret over his solid floor play and slick shooting eye.

Friday night, Thorn scored 18 points and led the seventh-ranked Mountaineers to a 70-65 victory over Oregon State in the opening round of the University of Kentucky Invitational Tournament.

The host Kentucky Wildcats, ranked ninth in the latest Associated Press poll, overpowered Iowa, 94-69. The winners will meet for the championship tonight.

While two members of the college top ten came through handsomely, two others fell by the wayside. Second-ranked Duke was knocked off for the second straight time as Miami of Florida edged the Blue Devils, 71-69. And sixth-ranked Colorado was beaten by Arizona State, 71-53.

In other leading games, Southern California boosted its record to 8-0 by whipping Nebraska, 58-49; in the Holiday Classic at Houston, the Michigan Wolverines outlasted Houston 90-88, in four overtimes and Texas A&M defeated Louisiana State, 67-61; Utah beat Michigan State, 88-79; Oklahoma rallied to defeat Purdue, 80-79; Kansas State snapped a five-game losing streak with an 88-72 conquest of Indiana and Stanford turned back Wyoming 81-62.

Thorn, hot on floor play in the first half when he scored only six points, found his shooting eye after the intermission after Terry Baker, the college football All-America, sparked an Oregon State comeback.

Mike McCoy's jump shot with five seconds to go was the winner for Miami on its home court. Duke got off to a fast start and led 16-6 at the 5-minute mark. The Hurricanes narrowed the margin to 37-36 at halftime.

McCoy wound up with 26 points while Jay Buckley was high for Duke with 16.

Arizona state used a strong defense and tremendous second half rebounding to trounce Colorado at Tempe, Ariz. It was the Buffs' first setback after five victories.

Carter Predicts He'll Chill Foe Tonight In 46 Seconds

NEW YORK (AP) — Cassius Clay, who calls himself the "loudmouth of the heavyweight division," is just a piker compared to Rubin (Hurricane) Carter, the latest sensation of the busy middleweight class.

Cocky Cassius predicts the round in which his opponents "must fall." Carter is using seconds to measure the time he gives his foes.

Tonight, at Madison Square Garden and on national television (ABC 10 p.m., EST), Carter, a 3-1 favorite, aims to annihilate steel-chinned Gomeo Brennan of Bimini in 46 seconds.

Why 46:

The knockout record for national television is 47 seconds and the Paterson, N.J., clouter aims to break it. The quickie mark was established by heavyweight Mike DeJohn when he belted out Charley Powell at Syracuse, N.Y., Nov. 6, 1959.

Carter thought he broke the record when he flattened middleweight contender Florentino Fernandez of Cuba in 69 seconds at the Garden on Oct. 27. He thought the record was 1 minute, 47 seconds.

"I knew I could knock out Fernandez real fast, almost as soon as I hit him," said Carter, "so I was taking my time. When I blasted him out in 69 seconds I thought sure I had a new record. But later Carmine (manager Carmine Tedeschi) told me I missed it. I won't miss it this time. I saw Brennan fight Skeeter McClure. He'll go faster than Fernandez, you can count on it."

In 13 months of pro fighting, the 25-year-old muscleman has racked up an 11-2 record, all of the victories by knockouts.

Brennan has a 52-75 record, including 27 knockouts.

Even Scenery Change Doesn't Help Tapers

By The Associated Press

Even a change of scenery could not help the Philadelphia Tapers.

For the fourth time in as many nights, the Tapers went down to defeat at the hands of Kansas City Friday night as the first-place Steers extended their American Basketball League winning skein to nine.

Kansas City edged Philadelphia 109-107 at Kiel Auditorium in St. Louis. The three previous games were held in Kansas City.

Gift-Giving Spirit Takes Unique Bounce

PARKER, Pa. (AP)—The gift-giving spirit, traditional in this Christmas season, made an unexpected appearance on the basketball court at Allegheny-Clarion Valley High School Friday night.

In the third period of a game against visiting Victory Joint High School, A-C's Jack Master grabbed a jump ball, dribbled down the court and made a perfect lay-up—right into the other team's basket.

A few minutes later, Victory Joint's Pete Bixler, still chuckling over his opponent's mistake, broke through a full-court press to score—and handed the two points back to A-C.

Allegheny-Clarion won 68-55.

Freshwater Leads Attack Over Bethany

Unbeaten New Cumberland cut loose with its most potent attack of the season to roll over Bethany, 82-53, in a free-scoring game Friday night at the New Cumberland gym.

New Cumberland seized an early lead and was far ahead by three quarters, 63-36. The decisive victory was their third straight, following a 77-35 blitz of South Side, and a 72-17 nod over West Liberty.

The Blue Raiders made it a clean sweep, with the New Cumberland posting a 57-16 victory in the preliminary over Bethany.

Oilers Picked Over Texans By 6 Points

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Coach Hank Stram and the Dallas Texans were to arrive in Houston today for their American Football League championship game with the Houston Oilers.

The two-time AFL champion Oilers are favored by one touchdown to prevent the Texans from becoming the first Western Division club to win a league title in their contest Sunday.

However, records show little difference in the two squads who split one game apiece in their intrastate rivalry during the regular season.

Both won division titles with 11-3 records. They rank one-two in the league in both total offense and defense, and neither gained a wide statistical edge in their games against each other.

The Texans led the league in defense with 282 yards, compared to 295 for second-place Houston. The Oilers led in total offense, averaging 355 yards per game to 347 for Dallas.

Stram reported his Texans in good condition Friday with the exception of end Chris Burford.

Burford was sidelined a month ago in a game with the Oakland Raiders when his knee was injured.

Oiler coach Frank (Pop) Ivy also said Houston was in perfect shape to meet the Texans.

Only veteran guard Hogan Wharton was hobbling from a lame ankle that kept him out of the Oilers' 44-10 victory over the New York Titans last Saturday.

Dallas Texans Land 10 On AFL Star Squad

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The Western Division champion Dallas Texans dominate the West squad for the American Football League All-Star game with 10 players on the 22-man list selected by player ballot.

The game will be played here Jan. 13.

San Diego and Denver each placed five men on the West team, while Oakland had two.

Dallas' Lenny Dawson, AFL Player of the Year, will quarterback the West team. Operating in the backfield with him will be Texans Abner Haynes at halfback and Curtis McClinton, AFL Rookie of the Year, at fullback.

West Coach Hank Stram of Dallas will select seven players next week to fill out his squad, as will East Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy of Houston, the sponsoring Junior Chamber of Commerce announced.

Michelosen Retained As Pitt Grid Coach

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Chancellor Edward H. Litchfield has given a vote of confidence to University of Pittsburgh football coach John Michelosen—but with reservations.

Litchfield said Friday night Michelosen would be retained for 1963. However, the chancellor said he wants to see more wide-open football with less plays sent in from the sidelines.

Hawks Spill Los Angeles

By The Associated Press

The St. Louis Hawks have evened a big score with the Los Angeles Lakers in the National Basketball Association.

Humbled by the Lakers last Wednesday night, 134-106, the Hawks turned on their tormentors in Los Angeles Friday night and beat them, 105-100.

Hawk Coach Harry Gallatin complained after Wednesday's game about the stunting and clowning of Laker backcourt veteran, Hot Rod Hundley, saying there was no place for exhibitionism in NBA games. He said the spectacle of Hundley trying to humiliate his players when the Lakers were 30 points ahead, rebound against the Lakers.

Something rebounded against them all right. Trailing 81-74 as the final period started, the Hawks staged a rally that sent the Lakers reeling to their 10th defeat against 24 victories. It was only the second defeat at home this year for the Western Division champions.

By winning, the Hawks pulled to within 3½ games of the pace-setting Lakers. The game snapped a six-game Laker win streak.

Oscar Robertson put on a one-man show as the Cincinnati Royals raced to a 129-116 victory over the Chicago Zephyrs at Cincinnati. Robertson scored 30 points and 20 rebounds.

Dodgers And Angels Sweep Four Awards

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers and Angels swept the four major league baseball Men of the Year awards of the Sporting News Friday.

Angels' General Manager Fred Haney was picked as the No. 1 executive of 1962 by the national baseball weekly and Bill Rigney of the Angels was chosen Manager of the Year.

Maury Wills of the Dodgers was named Player of the Year and teammate Don Drysdale won Pitcher of the Year honors.

Lombardi, Sherman Coaches In Pro Bowl

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Coaches Vince Lombardi of Green Bay and Al Sherman of New York, who will match strategies in the National Football League title game in New York Dec. 30, will give a repeat performance in the Pro Bowl game here Jan. 13.

Sponsors announced Friday the selection of the pair for the 17th annual tussle in Memorial Coliseum between stars of the Eastern and Western divisions.

It will be the second time for Sherman and Lombardi as Pro Bowl coaches. Last year Lombardi's West won, 35-31.

3 College Bowl Frays Today

Dallas, Houston Collide For AFL Title Sunday

By The Associated Press

The first of the two pro football playoff games—an all-Texas affair—tops the post-season card this weekend, and sets the stage for the even bigger holiday program ahead.

The Dallas Texans try to stop the drive of the Houston Oilers for a third straight American Football League title Sunday at Houston.

Television (ABC) carries the game at 3 p.m., EST.

On television today are the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston and the annual North-South game at Miami. The Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., pitting Miami of Ohio against Houston, rounds out the day's schedule.

The Bluebonnet game matches Missouri (7-1-2) and Georgia Tech (7-2-1).

Looking ahead to next Saturday, Penn State and Florida meet in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. There also are three all-star games, East-West at San Francisco, Blue-Gray at Montgomery, Ala., and major college players against small college players in the All-American Bowl at Tucson, Ariz.

On Dec. 30 the Green Bay Packers and the New York Giants tangle in Yankee Stadium for the National Football League crown. The game will be carried by NBC-TV except in the New York area, where fans are suing and the mayor is pleading to get the television blackout lifted for the sellout battle.

On Dec. 31, West Texas State and Ohio University play in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex.

Then comes the big New Year's Day schedule featuring the Rose Bowl, the Sugar Bowl, the Cotton Bowl and the Orange Bowl.

Badgers Due At Bowl Site

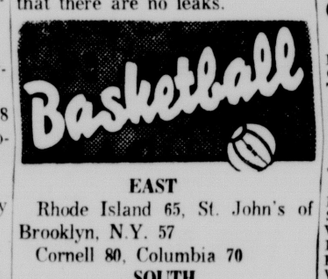

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wisconsin's Badgers arrive today to complete their preparations for the Rose Bowl football game and, simultaneously, the Southern California Trojans close their practice gates to the public.

"The honeymoon is over," said a member of the Trojan coaching staff. "There's a lot to be done in the eight days of practice allotted to us."

The coaching staff, after watching films of Wisconsin games over and over, has made its over-all plans for attack and defense, and head coach John McKay starts in today on the execution of defensive maneuvers.

Southern California plans to stay pretty much with the basic patterns it used so successfully all season in compiling a 10-0 record, which gave the Trojans No. 1 ranking among the colleges.

McKay's team permitted only 55 points to be scored against it all season. That is the real secret of the Trojan success — defense, and McKay is intent on seeing that there are no leaks.

West Branch Rallies To Top E. Palestine

EAST PALESTINE — Powerful West Branch spurted in the third period and went on to post a 56-48 victory over East Palestine here Friday night.

Coach Chick McBride's Bulldogs raced to a seven-point lead in the first quarter and had a 31-26 advantage at halftime. But West Branch made hay in the third quarter, scoring 15 points with only six in retaliation, to move ahead to stay.

East Palestine's record fell to 2-3, while West Branch remained on the winning track with a 4-1 record.

High - scoring Dave Watt led East Palestine's 20-goal attack with 19 points, while Smotrilla chipped in with 12. Steve Hirt, brother of Marietta College ace Sam Hirt, got five.

Dick Wallace led West Branch with 15 points, while Hendricks and Sharp also hit in double figures. West Branch was outscored froom the field by one, but made up the deficit at the foul line to post the narrow victory.

Freshwater Leads Attack Over Bethany

Unbeaten New Cumberland cut loose with its most potent attack of the season to roll over Bethany, 82-53, in a free-scoring game Friday night at the New Cumberland gym.

New Cumberland seized an early lead and was far ahead by three quarters, 63-36. The decisive victory was their third straight, following a 77-35 blitz of South Side, and a 72-17 nod over West Liberty.

The Blue Raiders made it a clean sweep, with the New Cumberland posting a 57-16 victory in the preliminary over Bethany.

Oilers Picked Over Texans By 6 Points

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Coach Hank Stram and the Dallas Texans were to arrive in Houston today for their American Football League championship game with the Houston Oilers.

The two-time AFL champion Oilers are favored by one touchdown to prevent the Texans from becoming the first Western Division club to win a league title in their contest Sunday.

However, records show little difference in the two squads who split one game apiece in their intrastate rivalry during the regular season.

Both won division titles with 11-3 records. They rank one-two in the league in both total offense and defense, and neither gained a wide statistical edge in their games against each other.

The Texans led the league in defense with 282 yards, compared to 295 for second-place Houston. The Oilers led in total offense, averaging 355 yards per game to 347 for Dallas.

Burford was sidelined a month ago in a game with the Oakland Raiders when his knee was injured.

Oiler coach Frank (Pop) Ivy also said Houston was in perfect shape to meet the Texans.

Dallas Texans Land 10 On AFL Star Squad

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The Western Division champion Dallas Texans dominate the West squad for the American Football League All-Star game with 10 players on the 22-man list selected by player ballot.

The game will be played here Jan. 13.

San Diego and Denver each placed five men on the West team, while Oakland had two.

Dallas' Lenny Dawson, AFL Player of the Year, will quarterback the West team. Operating in the backfield with him will be Texans Abner Haynes at halfback and Curtis McClinton, AFL Rookie of the Year, at fullback.

West Coach Hank Stram of Dallas will select seven players next week to fill out his squad, as will East Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy of Houston, the sponsoring Junior Chamber of Commerce announced.

Michelosen Retained As Pitt Grid Coach

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Chancellor Edward H. Litchfield has given a vote of confidence to University of Pittsburgh football coach John Michelosen—but with reservations.

Litchfield said Friday night Michelosen would be retained for 1963. However, the chancellor said he wants to see more wide-open football with less plays sent in from the sidelines.

Hawks Spill Los Angeles

By The Associated Press

The St. Louis Hawks have evened a big score with the Los Angeles Lakers in the National Basketball Association.

Humbled by the Lakers last Wednesday night, 134-106, the Hawks turned on their tormentors in Los Angeles Friday night and beat them, 105-100.

Hawk Coach Harry Gallatin complained after Wednesday's game about the stunting and clowning of Laker backcourt veteran, Hot Rod Hundley, saying there was no place for exhibitionism in NBA games. He said the spectacle of Hundley trying to humiliate his players when the Lakers were 30 points ahead, rebound against the Lakers.

Something rebounded against them all right. Trailing 81-74 as the final period started, the Hawks staged a rally that sent the Lakers reeling to their 10th defeat against 24 victories. It was only the second defeat at home this year for the Western Division champions.

By winning, the Hawks pulled to within 3½ games of the pacesetting Lakers. The game snapped a six-game Laker win streak.

Oscar Robertson put on a one-man show as the Cincinnati Royals raced to a 129-116 victory over the Chicago Zephyrs at Cincinnati. Robertson scored 30 points and 20 rebounds.

Dodgers And Angels Sweep Four Awards

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers and Angels swept the four major league baseball Men of the Year awards of the Sporting News Friday.

Angels' General Manager Fred Haney was picked as the No. 1 executive of 1962 by the national baseball weekly and Bill Rigney of the Angels was chosen Manager of the Year.

Maury Wills of the Dodgers was named Player of the Year and teammate Don Drysdale won Pitcher of the Year honors.

Lombardi, Sherman Coaches In Pro Bowl

Sponsors announced Friday the selection of the pair for the 17th annual tussle in Memorial Coliseum between stars of the Eastern and Western divisions.

It will be the second time for Sherman and Lombardi as Pro Bowl coaches. Last year Lombardi's West won, 35-31.

Dallas, Houston Collide For AFL Title Sunday

By The Associated Press

The first of the two pro football playoff games—an all-Texas affair—tops the post-season card this weekend, and sets the stage for the even bigger holiday program ahead.

The Dallas Texans try to stop the drive of the Houston Oilers for a third straight American Football League title Sunday at Houston.

On television today are the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston and the annual North-South game at Miami. The Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla., pitting Miami of Ohio against Houston, rounds out the day's schedule.

Looking ahead to next Saturday, Penn State and Florida meet in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla. There also are three all-star games, East-West at San Francisco, Blue-Gray at Montgomery, Ala., and major college players against small college players in the All-American Bowl at Tucson, Ariz.

On Dec. 30 the Green Bay Packers and the New York Giants tangle in Yankee Stadium for the National Football League crown. The game will be carried by NBC-TV except in the New York area, where fans are suing and the mayor is pleading to get the television blackout lifted for the sellout battle.

On Dec. 31, West Texas State and Ohio University play in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex.

Then comes the big New Year's Day schedule featuring the Rose Bowl, the Sugar Bowl, the Cotton Bowl and the Orange Bowl.

Badgers Due At Bowl Site

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Wisconsin's Badgers arrive today to complete their preparations for the Rose Bowl football game and, simultaneously, the Southern California Trojans close their practice gates to the public.

"The honeymoon is over," said a member of the Trojan coaching staff. "There's a lot to be done in the eight days of practice allotted to us."

The coaching staff, after watching films of Wisconsin games over and over, has made its over-all plans for attack and defense, and head coach John McKay starts in today on the execution of defensive maneuvers.

Southern California plans to stay pretty much with the basic patterns it used so successfully all season in compiling a 10-0 record, which gave the Trojans No. 1 ranking among the colleges.

McKay's team permitted only 55 points to be scored against it all season. That is the real secret of the Trojan success — defense, and McKay is intent on seeing that there are no leaks.

Living Costs Didn't Rise In November

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lower food and clothing prices balanced out higher costs for automobiles and services to leave the nation's living - cost level unchanged from October to November.

The Labor Department reported its consumers price index remained at 106.0 per cent of the 1957-59 base period. This one-tenth of 1 per cent below the record set in September, but 1.3 per cent higher than November a year ago.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, forecast there would be little or no change in the December living - cost level when it is reported next month.

Weekly take - home pay of factory workers, representing earnings less payroll tax deductions, rose in November to an average of $86.19 a week for the worker with three dependents. This was slightly below the $86.45 record set in September. The October figure was $85.66.

About 225,000 workers will receive pay increases ranging from one to four cents an hour because the living - cost level has risen from those recorded three to six months ago.

About 85,000, including 75,000 in the Republic, North American, and Lockheed aerospace industry plants, are to get a 1-cent hourly increase. Another 90,000, including 80,000 employes of the Armour, Swift and John Morrell meat packing firms, are due 2-cent hourly raises. About 25,000 Chicago truck drivers will receive 4-cent hourly raises, all based on the higher living - cost index.

Clague said expected higher prices for fruits and vegetables, due to the recent Florida crop freeze, will not be shown by the government living - cost index until the January figure is announced in late February.

He said housewives may feel the freeze effect sooner in higher retail prices for produce.

Food prices dropped .2 of one per cent in November, largely because of seasonal price cuts for pork, oranges and eggs.

Compared with a year ago, food prices are 2.2 per cent higher, primarily because of higher costs for meats, poultry, fish and fresh fruits and vegetables.

Clothing prices declined, mainly because of fairly sharp reductions in cost of women's and girls' apparel. It was speculated that this was due to fairly warm weather conditions continuing into the late fall.

Increases were recorded for housing, reading - recreation, and transportation. The transportation increase was due primarily to higher average sales prices on new cars, both the 1962 and 1963 models.

The transportation cost increase was moderated somewhat by lower gasoline prices and temporarily reduced railroad fares in some sections reflecting elimination of the federal transportation tax.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station staff has a new holiday drink with a ratio of nine-to-one. Cider and strawberry juice, that is.

20 At KSU Ousted For Stealing Tests

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Twenty Kent State University students, some of whom used master keys to enter campus offices and steal tests, have been dismissed outright.

George A. Bowman, president, said the students have been notified also that they were given failing grades in all fall-quarter courses. He said outright dismissal means the university is not committed to readmit the students later.

The 20 were accused of illegal possession or illegal use of keys to enter locked buildings. Three were convicted in Kent Municipal Court for petit larceny at the university book store. They were arrested getting into the bookstore last Thursday.

The others allegedly used master keys to enter the campus buildings from which the tests were stolen.

The collection this year is to pay for food and money already distributed to about 1,000 needy families plus 6,000 toys for youngsters and the army's so-called sunshine bags for shut-ins.

Living Costs Didn't Rise In November

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lower food and clothing prices balanced out higher costs for automobiles and services to leave the nation's living - cost level unchanged from October to November.

The Labor Department reported its consumers price index remained at 106.0 per cent of the 1957-59 base period. This one-tenth of 1 per cent below the record set in September, but 1.3 per cent higher than November a year ago.

Ewan Clague, commissioner of labor statistics, forecast there would be little or no change in the December living - cost level when it is reported next month.

Weekly take - home pay of factory workers, representing earnings less payroll tax deductions, rose in November to an average of $86.19 a week for the worker with three dependents. This was slightly below the $86.45 record set in September. The October figure was $85.66.

About 225,000 workers will receive pay increases ranging from one to four cents an hour because the living - cost level has risen from those recorded three to six months ago.

About 85,000, including 75,000 in the Republic, North American, and Lockheed aerospace industry plants, are to get a 1-cent hourly increase. Another 90,000, including 80,000 employes of the Armour, Swift and John Morrell meat packing firms, are due 2-cent hourly raises. About 25,000 Chicago truck drivers will receive 4-cent hourly raises, all based on the higher living - cost index.

Clague said expected higher prices for fruits and vegetables, due to the recent Florida crop freeze, will not be shown by the government living - cost index until the January figure is announced in late February.

He said housewives may feel the freeze effect sooner in higher retail prices for produce.

Food prices dropped .2 of one per cent in November, largely because of seasonal price cuts for pork, oranges and eggs.

Compared with a year ago, food prices are 2.2 per cent higher, primarily because of higher costs for meats, poultry, fish and fresh fruits and vegetables.

Clothing prices declined, mainly because of fairly sharp reductions in cost of women's and girls' apparel. It was speculated that this was due to fairly warm weather conditions continuing into the late fall.

Increases were recorded for housing, reading - recreation, and transportation. The transportation increase was due primarily to higher average sales prices on new cars, both the 1962 and 1963 models.

The transportation cost increase was moderated somewhat by lower gasoline prices and temporarily reduced railroad fares in some sections reflecting elimination of the federal transportation tax.

Gifts Exchanged At Shippingport

A grabbag gift exchange featured a Christmas party of the Helping Hands Class of the Green Valley Methodist Church of Shippingport Wednesday morning in the social rooms.

Prizes at games went to Mrs. Donna Allison, Mrs. Milton Potts and Mrs. Shirley Rogers. Lunch was served 11 by Mrs. Harry Allison and Mrs. Jean McCord. Lighted tapers and Christmas flowers centered the table that was covered with a red cloth.

A donation was approved for the Sunday School's projects of buying new tables when the Willing Workers Class met Monday night in the social rooms.

A Christmas party was featured and prizes in games went to Mary Drake, Betty Call, Alice Graham and Dorothy Hayward. A gift exchange was held.

Holiday Drink: Cider And Strawberry Juice

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station staff has a new holiday drink with a ratio of nine-to-one. Cider and strawberry juice, that is.

Food researchers at the Wooster station said they liked the mixture and a taste panel gave it a top rating. For the strawberry juice, researchers say squeeze thawed strawberries or put the fruit through a blender.

Face Closing Violation

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)—Isador Bier, operator of Rinks Bargain City, and Perry Saxon, manager of the Miracle Mart, both in Fairfield, face charges of violating Ohio's Sunday closing laws. An attorney for the Rev. High School Club Holds Yule Party

Games and contests featured the Christmas party of the Future Business Women's Club of East Liverpool High School Thursday night in the Potters Savings & Loan Co. annex.

Ginnie Rae Anderson, president, conducted brief business. It was reported $13 was realized from the recent bake sale. Another will be held today at the J. C. Penney Co. store. Proceeds will go for club projects.

Refreshments were served 13 by Joyce Wilson and Miss Groubert. Sessions will resume after the school holiday recess.

20 At KSU Ousted For Stealing Tests

KENT, Ohio (AP)—Twenty Kent State University students, some of whom used master keys to enter campus offices and steal tests, have been dismissed outright.

George A. Bowman, president, said the students have been notified also that they were given failing grades in all fall-quarter courses. He said outright dismissal means the university is not committed to readmit the students later.

The 20 were accused of illegal possession or illegal use of keys to enter locked buildings. Three were convicted in Kent Municipal Court for petit larceny at the university book store. They were arrested getting into the bookstore last Thursday.

The others allegedly used master keys to enter the campus buildings from which the tests were stolen.

Salvation Army's Collections Behind

CINCINNATI (AP) — Salvation Army workers who man the kettles and tambourines in shopper-clogged downtown Cincinnati say they need more help. A spokesman said Friday night the army's Christmas kettle drive collections here are about $3,500 behind last year.

The collection this year is to pay for food and money already distributed to about 1,000 needy families plus 6,000 toys for youngsters and the army's so-called sunshine bags for shut-ins.

Man Killed By Car

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—James Alvin Baker, 87, of Springfield was struck by an automobile and killed Friday at an intersection a mile west of here.

Junior Editors Quiz on MINERALS

QUESTION: Can rocks grow?

ANSWER: We all know about the animal, vegetable and mineral kingdoms—that the animal and vegetable kingdoms are alive and the mineral kingdom is not. Everything in the animal and vegetable kingdoms grows, at least at first. It may surprise you to hear that certain minerals grow, too. Jennie and Jack are performing an experiment in our picture which you can also try and which will show you how solid crystals can form or grow from salt water. Many caves have icicle-shaped objects hanging from above called "stalactites." These have been formed by dripping water which deposits small amounts of minerals, gradually building an icicle of stone. Living and non-living things grow by entirely different methods.

Animal and plant cells take in outside matter and turn it into the material of which they are made; they grow by cells continually dividing to make new ones. But minerals or rocks grow by more and more of the same substance being added together, with nothing new created. No matter how successfully you raise your sodium crystals, they'll never eat, never play and never be smart enough to be sent to school!

FOR YOU TO DO: When you make the experiment, be sure to put enough salt in the water. Keep adding it until some stays undissolved. After pouring clear solution into another glass, put it away where no one will disturb it for a month or two, for the salt crystals grow slowly

Doctors, Clergymen Assisting Mentally Ill

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Along the highways to the Menninger Foundation are coming clergymen, businessmen, doctors, lawyers, teachers, community leaders.

"The exciting thing is to help people before they become ill," says Dr. William Menninger, a big, relaxed man who with his brother, Karl, is among the pioneers in psychiatric care who have helped change state mental hospitals from keepers of the ill to effective treatment centers.

Mental illness begins or is aggravated in the home, the school, on the job, in many situations. Life can begin going sour in hundreds of ways—for the woman feeling useless after her children leave home, the man failing of his dreams, the child feeling inadequate to parental expectations and demands.

There are not enough psychiatrists and psychologists for troubled persons to turn to. Many physicians give such aid, and halt the people going to family doctors do so because of symptoms arising from psychological causes. Psychiatric education of the general physician is a major program of the American Psychiatric Association.

Some already know intuitively how to advise the emotionally troubled, says Dr. Joseph Satten, director of the Menninger Foundation's social psychiatry department, stressing research on prevention.

Others can be given an understanding of some scientific principles, the ABC with which to recognize problems, to counsel people, to prevent situations from becoming worse, to suggest helpful courses of action in a useful way.

What happens to people at work can powerfully influence mental health, explains Dr. Harry Levinson. So, since 1956, top business executives have been coming to the foundation for special week-long seminars to "learn what makes people tick."

Why does a top salesman fail as a desk-bound executive? Why do seemingly successful men turn to alcoholism, or threaten suicide? What makes employes angry or frustrated?

By one estimate, 80 to 90 per cent of emotional problems seen on the job among employes arise in their home life.

The objective is to teach business leaders how to listen, to know how humans feel, Dr. Levinson adds. And, since top men have emotions also, how to maintain their own balance.

One survey finds that 42 per cent of people turn first to their ministers or pastors when emotional troubles begin to take a toll. Appropriate training for future clergymen is sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health at Loyola University in Chicago, Yeshiva University in New York, and at Harvard Divinity School.

Thousands of school children run into serious emotional problems. The nervous, tyrannical, and lackadaisical child can be reflecting emotional and family problems.

Dr. Edward Greenwood heads a program in which Topeka schools, teachers, psychiatrists and psychologists join hands in counseling to detect troubles, find causes and remedies. Invariably this involves voluntary consultations with parents, who may unwittingly be triggering the child's reactions.

"Being a good parent is one of the most difficult tasks of all," Dr. Greenwood remarks sympathetically. This teamwork approach for children reaches into elementary and junior high schools.

Growing old brings on other stresses, and a new retirement —and—geriatrics clinic under Dr. Prescott Thompson now is treating a small number of men and women in a study of their special problems.

In other steps, suicide prevention centers (where the distraught can call for help), improved training of more marriage counselors, and mental health courses in high schools and colleges, are being sponsored by the NIMH and National Association for Mental Health.

West Virginia Girl Killed In Car Mishap

LATROBE, Pa. (AP)—A car spun out of control on icy U.S. 30 and struck several guard rails shortly before midnight Friday night, killing a West Virginia teen-ager.

State police said Franna Thirouin of Parkersburg died of a fractured skull.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Joseph Lebanno, 23, of McKees Rocks. Lebanno escaped Sandra Rinkes, 20, of Flushing, injury, but another passenger, Sandra Rinkes, 20, of Flushing, Ohio, was hospitalized in fair condition with lacerations and possible internal injuries.

The mishap occurred four miles east of Latrobe in the westbound lane of the divided four-lane highway.

Secretary-Treasurer Elmer Cope reported that the Ohio AFL-CIO used $14,010 from its treasury mainly in support of campaigns for Democratic state senators. The AFL-CIO Committee on Political Education received $46,386 and spent $45,454 largely in behalf of Democratic congressional candidates. The union said a balance of $932 would go for education research.

U. S. Sen. Frank J. Lausche, re-elected Democrat, received and spent $2,655 personally. His committee took in $12,526, spent $10,572 and showed a balance of $1,954.

Lausche's Republican opponent, John Marshall Briley of Toledo, received and spent $22,877 personally. His committee listed $24,108 received and spent. Ohio Lawyers for Briley Committee spent $12,000 received.

Richard W. Davies of Ebbw Vale, Wales is studying industrial management at Carnegie Institute of Technology in Pittsburgh.

The Rotary Foundation seeks to promote understanding and friendly relations between the peoples of different nations. Its major activity is granting Rotary Foundation Fellowships to outstanding graduate students for one year of study abroad as Rotary "ambassadors of good will."

Since the program was established in 1947 as a memorial to Paul P. Talks Halted In Cleveland Paper Strike

CLEVELAND (AP) — Negotiations are off until next week in Cleveland's three-week-old newspaper strike, deadlocked over the issue of union security.

The recess was announced Friday night after the Cleveland newspaper Guild rejected a full-package proposal made by management of the morning Plain Dealer and the afternoon Cleveland Press and News, a Scripps-Howard paper.

Both sides met together for 30 minutes but ended in what one guild negotiator called a "hopeless stalemate" over union security.

Sidney Jackson, publishers' attorney, said management's offer included an average weekly pay increase of $8 over two years. The lawyer said the proposal on union security was in substance what seemed "acceptable to guild negotiators the past week."

The proposal, he said, "has the degree of union security we are willing to agree to and no more."

Guild negotiators said the offer was made orally. The proposal was "intended to lead to a back-to-work stampede," the guild said in a statement.

The Guild said it wants a union security contract provision which would protect membership in the commercial department of the Press.

Meanwhile, picketing continues by the 405 drivers of Teamsters Local 473. Their walkout on Nov. 29 halted publication of the newspapers, but on Thursday they ended a 10-day truce under which they had returned to work.

Couple Will Retire As Project Directors

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Russel W. Jelliffe plan to retire April 1 as directors of Karamu House, the interracial project they founded more than 47 years ago. The center established in a mixed neighborhood of foreign-born and Negro residents on Cleveland's East Side in 1915, is devoted to encouraging friendly racial relations through the arts.

Replacing the Jelliffes will be Olcutt Sanders, director of development at Wilmington College.

Plans Residence Hall

CLEVELAND (AP)—John Carroll University plans to start building a residence hall next spring to accommodate 400 men. A federal loan of $1,860,000 for construction of the facility has just been approved by the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Winter and Your Septic Tank

Unlike humans, who heat their homes in winter, or even animals, who have hairy bodies to keep them warm, the poor little bacteria in septic tanks and waste disposal systems have no protection against those harsh winter months ahead.

Since a temperature drop of only a few degrees will kill billions of these hard working microbes, the reduced bacterial population becomes incapable of disposing of the waste which enters such systems, resulting in clogged and unsanitary conditions.

These bacteria, mainly the colon-type, are produced in the human body at a temperature of 98.6° F., and lose their ability to produce their own enzymes for solids liquification as the temperature drops, literally starving to death. Quoting from SEWERAGE and SEWAGE TREATMENT: (1)

"Temperature of sludge digestion — the most practical optimum temperature of sludge digestion, known as the Mesophilic Range, is between 80°F. and 90°F., preferably about 85°F. As the temperature drops, bacterial action diminishes almost in proportion until at about 50°F. It practically ceases."

Naturally, since the temperatures in unheated sewage systems average between 50°F. and 60°F. in winter, it may readily be seen that trouble can be expected.

HOW SEA-CAL ENZYMES HELP

Enzymes are not as susceptible to low temperatures as are bacteria, and it has been proven that their liquifying ability continues a slow as 35°F. Therefore, SEA-CAL takes over the reduction of the solids, producing food in AVAILABLE form for the reduced bacteria population, enabling them to continue their valuable work, and to produce clear effluents for transmission to drainfields and cesspools. Since SEA-CAL also contains strains of virile bacteria by the million per gram, fresh populations are added each time a treatment is made.

For only a few pennies per treatment, for the average home system, SEA-CAL insures year-round protection from costly service problems, and unsanitary conditions.

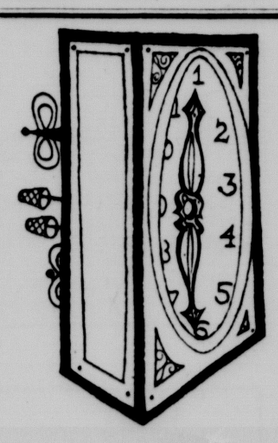

USE SEA-CAL ENZYMES REGULARLY ALL YEAR, INCREASING DOSES IN WINTER.

Doctors, Clergymen Assisting Mentally Ill

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

They share a common goal — the prevention of mental illness with its incalculable human suffering.

"The exciting thing is to help people before they become ill," says Dr. William Menninger, a big, relaxed man who with his brother, Karl, is among the pioneers in psychiatric care who have helped change state mental hospitals from keepers of the ill to effective treatment centers.

Mental illness begins or is aggravated in the home, the school, on the job, in many situations. Life can begin going sour in hundreds of ways—for the woman feeling useless after her children leave home, the man failing of his dreams, the child feeling inadequate to parental expectations and demands.

There are not enough psychiatrists and psychologists for troubled persons to turn to. Many physicians give such aid, and half the people going to family doctors do so because of symptoms arising from psychological causes. Psychiatric education of the general physician is a major program of the American Psychiatric Association.

Some already know intuitively how to advise the emotionally troubled, says Dr. Joseph Satten, director of the Menninger Foundation's social psychiatry department, stressing research on prevention.

Others can be given an understanding of some scientific principles, the ABC with which to recognize problems, to counsel people, to prevent situations from becoming worse, to suggest helpful courses of action in a useful way.

What happens to people at work can powerfully influence mental health, explains Dr. Harry Levinson. So, since 1956, top business executives have been coming to the foundation for special weeklong seminars to "learn what makes people tick."

Why does a top salesman fail as a desk-bound executive? Why do seemingly successful men turn to alcoholism, or threaten suicide? What makes employes angry or frustrated?

By one estimate, 80 to 90 per cent of emotional problems seen on the job among employes arise in their home life.

The objective is to teach business leaders how to listen, to know how humans feel, Dr. Levinson adds. And, since top men have emotions also, how to maintain their own balance.

One survey finds that 42 per cent of people turn first to their ministers or pastors when emotional troubles begin to take a toll. Appropriate training for future clergymen is sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health at Loyola University in Chicago, Yeshiva University in New York, and at Harvard Divinity School.

Thousands of school children run into serious emotional problems. The nervous, tyrannical, and lackadaisical child can be reflecting emotional and family problems.

Dr. Edward Greenwood heads a program in which Topeka schools, teachers, psychiatrists and psychologists join hands in counseling to detect troubles, find causes and remedies. Invariably this involves voluntary consultations with parents, who may unwittingly be triggering the child's reactions.

"Being a good parent is one of the most difficult tasks of all," Dr. Greenwood remarks sympathetically. This teamwork approach for children reaches into elementary and junior high schools.

Growing old brings on other stresses, and a new retirement —and—geriatrics clinic under Dr. Prescott Thompson now is treating a small number of men and women in a study of their special problems.

In other steps, suicide prevention centers (where the distraught can call for help), improved training of more marriage counselors, and mental health courses in high schools and colleges, are being sponsored by the NIMH and National Association for Mental Health.

THE KREMLIN CAN'T KILL CHRISTMAS

FOR MORE THAN 45 years, the Kremlin's propaganda machine has hammered away at the theme that Christmas is a fraud.

Yet one day next week hundreds of Soviet children will troop into the Great Kremlin Palace, the very citadel of Red atheism. There they will stare wide-eyed at a towering fir tree festooned with lights and bright baubles, and accept gifts from Grandfather Frost—a benign old gentleman who looks suspiciously like Santa Claus.

To be sure, the word "Christmas" will never be uttered, certainly not by the Kremlin sponsors. The gathering is calculated to instill in the children a devotion not to God but to the state.

Undoubtedly, the regime succeeds at least partially in this aim. But as a news correspondent who lived two years in Moscow, I can testify that the occasion also stands as a monument to the Kremlin's failure to erase Christmas from the hearts of the Soviet people.

Shortly after my arrival in Moscow, I stood shivering one day on Gorky Street, one of the capital's major thoroughfares. While waiting for a taxi, I pondered the sadness of the holiday season in Russia. It was Christmas morning, and I thought of the Nativity scenes in the store windows back home in America, the streets overhung with holly, the soft peal of church bells.

Anyone who lives in the U.S.S.R. learns, however, that beneath the dreary surface the Spirit of Bethlehem survives after all the years of propaganda, pressure, and persecution.

Small gifts, even crude Christmas cards, are exchanged among friends. And when I visited the home of one Russian during the holidays, I was surprised to see a Christmas tree; I knew they were unobtainable in the markets. "I cut it myself in the forests near Moscow," he explained. "Many of our people do so."

But more worrisome to the Kremlin is the fact that millions of professed atheists who never go to church any other time—even Communist Party members—attend the special Christmas services which are held on the evening of Dec. 24 in Roman Catholic and Lutheran churches and on Jan. 7 in the Russian Orthodox churches.

TAKE THE CASE of Vasily, a Soviet journalist who once told me mockingly that: "Our cosmonauts found no God in space." One Christmas Eve I visited Moscow's St. Louis Cathedral, where attendance usually is light for normal services. But on this occasion, I could barely crowd in. As I surveyed the faces, I was struck by the number of young people there—including Vasily, who stood silent with his head bowed.

Although galled by the persistence of the Christian faith, Khrushchev and company cannot afford to return to the harsh persecutions of the Stalin era; the resulting discontent might dangerously impair industrial production.

The regime's current tactic is a flank attack. A clever campaign is under way to take Christ out of Christmas—to preserve the festive trappings while removing the religious content and turning the holiday to Communist purposes.

Christmas is not forbidden; it is simply ignored. But on New Year's Day, celebrations are held in workers' clubs and Young Pioneer Palaces all over Russia. The traditional Christmas tree is there, with all the trimmings. But it is called a New Year's tree, and the accent is on the "glorious victories" to be won by communism.

The children's party at the Kremlin is the most glittering of all, with admittance reserved for those who have especially distinguished themselves in Young Pioneer work for the Soviet state. Grandfather Frost, a rotund, white-bearded fellow with a sparkling suit, plays the traditional role of Saint Nicholas.

The authorities go all out to make the celebration a truly happy and memorable one. They hope the youngsters will grow up identifying this occasion with the Party, not the church.

At home, most Russian families now have a tiny tree of their own. Again, it is called a New Year's tree, at least in the presence of foreigners. But it is significant that the tree usually stays in place until Jan. 8, the day after the Russian Orthodox Christmas—even in the homes of my "godless" Soviet acquaintances.

In "godless" Russia, Grandfather Frost hands out gifts under a New Year's tree, but the meaning of the Nativity survives in the hearts of the people

Country Tree and City Tree

By Ragna Eskil

Roy lived with his sister Sue and his mother and father in a country town. The day before Christmas Eve they all put on their coats and galoshes and got in the family station wagon.

It was snowing. They drove to a woods, and there they found a nice tree. Father took his axe and chopped it down. Then they all carried it to the station wagon, where they put it on top.

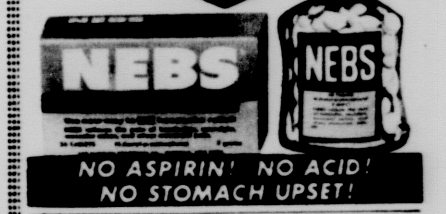

When they got home, Father put the tree on the back porch. That night Roy and Sue popped corn and made strings of the popped corn and cranberries. On Christmas Eve Father put the tree in the living room, and Roy and Sue trimmed it. It was a beautiful tree.

Jerry lived in the city with his sister Carrie and his mother and father. They could not go to the country for their tree. But Jerry and Carrie stood in front of their house, and when they saw the Christmas-tree man with his truck piled high with trees, they told their father.

He got the car out, and he, Mother, Jerry, and Carrie all drove to the vacant lot where the Christmas-tree man was unloading his trees. Father bought a nice one, and they put it on top of the car.

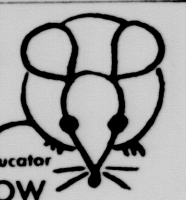

When they got home, Father put it on a stand and brought it into the living room. Then Jerry and Carrie put the trimmings on the tree just as Roy and Sue had done. And this was a beautiful tree, too.

Help your children in schoolwork NOW—when they need it most—with the benefit of expert guidance!

PARENTS AND TEACHERS agree that the time to build a solid foundation for future education is when the student is young. How well a child learns the fundamentals of the three R's and beginning science in grade school may well make the difference between progress and failure throughout his educative years.

But as you know, classrooms are overcrowded everywhere. There's a shortage of teachers. Your children just can't get the special help they need if they fall behind in regular classroom work. You can't expect the school to give your children the individual attention they need to develop the special qualities and abilities every child possesses. The serious consequences of waiting until it's too late are emphasized by the growing number of young people today who "drop out" of high school before graduation.

That leaves it up to you as parents to help your children in the elementary grades when they need your help most. If you don't help, no one else will.

But many parents have serious doubts. They realize teaching methods have changed since they were in school. They're afraid they've forgotten many of the rules learned in grade school.

HOW TO HELP YOUR CHILD IN READING, WRITING, ARITHMETIC & SCIENCE is a set of home study guides designed to bring you up to date. With these remarkable volumes, written by a successful teacher, you can give your child the guidance he needs to help him build a solid foundation in the basic subjects so vital to his future progress.

The books are arranged by grades. Each grade is divided into two sections. The first section contains a review to refresh your memory about the various school subjects and give you the benefit of the same explanations the modern teacher gives her class.

The second section is a Workbook to be used by your child under your guidance. The contents range from practice decimal problems to such exciting science activities as making a telegraph transmitter or building a weather station.

REVIEWS AND WORKBOOKS enable you to use tested teaching methods to help your child learn and practice the most important subjects from kindergarten through the eighth grade. If your child has trouble with reading, writing, arithmetic or science, you will see exactly where it lies and help him correct it. If, on the other hand, your child is capable of moving ahead faster than his class in a subject, you can help him set his own pace. Both ways, this Set helps you help the teacher help your child fully realize his educational potential.

About the Author—FRIEDA VAN ATTA is a mother of two, with 20 years' experience teaching all eight grades. She graduated from the University of North Dakota and has done graduate work in Chicago and at the University of California at Los Angeles.

DON'T WAIT! ORDER YOUR SET TODAY!

Help your children in schoolwork NOW—when they need it most—with the benefit of expert guidance!

PARENTS AND TEACHERS agree that the time to build a solid foundation for future education is when the student is young. How well a child learns the fundamentals of the three R's and beginning science in grade school may well make the difference between progress and failure throughout his educative years.

But as you know, classrooms are overcrowded everywhere. There's a shortage of teachers. Your children just can't get the special help they need if they fall behind in regular classroom work. You can't expect the school to give your children the individual attention they need to develop the special qualities and abilities every child possesses. The serious consequences of waiting until it's too late are emphasized by the growing number of young people today who "drop out" of high school before graduation.

That leaves it up to you as parents to help your children in the elementary grades when they need your help most. If you don't help, no one else will.

But many parents have serious doubts. They realize teaching methods have changed since they were in school. They're afraid they've forgotten many of the rules learned in grade school.

HOW TO HELP YOUR CHILD IN READING, WRITING, ARITHMETIC & SCIENCE is a set of home study guides designed to bring you up to date. With these remarkable volumes, written by a successful teacher, you can give your child the guidance he needs to help him build a solid foundation in the basic subjects so vital to his future progress.

The books are arranged by grades. Each grade is divided into two sections. The first section contains a review to refresh your memory about the various school subjects and give you the benefit of the same explanations the modern teacher gives her class.

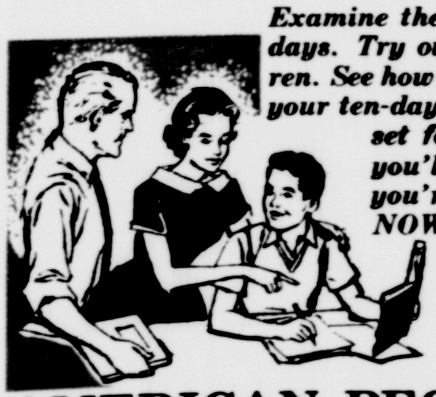

The second section is a Workbook to be used by your child under your guidance. The contents range from practice decimal problems to such exciting science activities as making a telegraph transmitter or building a weather station.

REVIEWS AND WORKBOOKS enable you to use tested teaching methods to help your child learn and practice the most important subjects from kindergarten through the eighth grade. If your child has trouble with reading, writing, arithmetic or science, you will see exactly where it lies and help him correct it. If, on the other hand, your child is capable of moving ahead faster than his class in a subject, you can help him set his own pace. Both ways, this Set helps you help the teacher help your child fully realize his educational potential.

About the Author—FRIEDA VAN ATTA is a mother of two, with 20 years' experience teaching all eight grades. She graduated from the University of North Dakota and has done graduate work in Chicago and at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Adventure in Paradise?

There is no USO on Joe's island—as there is in 32 other military danger zones. With 2,750,000 GI's, USO hasn't been able to keep pace. For lack of funds, thousands of watch-weary, taut-nerved GI's are being deprived of the USO's spiritual help . . . its vital measure of home.

Well, you can do something about that by giving to your United Fund or Community Chest, from which the USO gets a well-deserved share. Especially well-deserved because USO tries to reach all GI's—your boy among them—so he'll never have to wonder . . .

WE'RE RUNNING a race against Christmas. We run to the kitchen to bake cookies. We run to the market to buy hams and turkeys. We run to the shops to buy gifts.

We run all day every day with the calendar hot on our heels. At night, when we fall exhausted into bed, we can't sleep. The clock of Christmas ticks like a pounding pulse.

I'm out of breath. I run to my office. I run home again. I write all the checks in my checkbook and run to the bank for more. And I'm not laughing like Liberace.

When a neighbor hints at a special present in store for me, I remember I've left her name off my list. When I add it, I recall three other neighbors who belong there, and nothing occurs to me as a gift possibility except satin-covered thermometers or left-handed nonpareils.

The $5 saved for a lavish gift for a favorite aunt is sufficient for a bag of dog food. The cost of Christmas mounts higher every year. The insurance premium is due, and the car needs a new fuel pump, refusing to get up in the morning. One of these mornings I won't, either.

I lay a package down in the kitchen and rescue it later from the garbage can. I buy a gift and leave it in the store. And there are Christmas parties and gift exchanges and the desperate hours of trying to find something for someone who has everything. And the guilty feeling of not being able to put more in the Salvation Army kettles.

ONE OF THESE DAYS, one of these starlit nights, the spirit of Christmas will find me, and I will stop running. We all will. Suddenly, in a whiff of pine bough, the smoky scent of a fat candle, the rich taste of fruitcake, we will be captured.

We will notice, at last, a tree glowing in a window, a child's face lifted to Santa Claus. We will hear a church bell in the night and a carol in the snow.

All at once peace will come to replace the foolish race. We will sit quietly on Christmas Eve and fill our eyes with beauty.

The Christmas I Treasure Most

Jeffrey and Winifred (the youngest grandchildren) lighted all the candles. Then with all of his family gathered around him, Father read St. Luke's imcomparable account of the first Christmas. There was carol singing, with Chester and Winifred singing a duet—"Hark, the Herald Angels Sing" in their high piping voices. Then Mother, the storyteller of the family, gave us an old favorite: "Why the Chimes Rang." She made us see the ragged little boy creeping up that long cathedral aisle and slipping his gift onto the altar. Then she said: "You know, I'd like to make a suggestion. The floor underneath the tree in the den is piled high with gifts we're giving to one another. But we're celebrating Christ's birthday—not our own. This is His time of year. What are we going to give to Jesus?"

The room began to hum with voices comparing notes. But Mother went on: "Let's think about it for a few moments. Then we'll go around the circle and each of us will tell what gift he will lay on the altar for Christ's birthday."

Chester, age seven, crept close to his father for a whispered consultation. Then he said shyly: "What I'd like to give Jesus this year is not to lose my temper any more."

Jeffrey, age four, who had been slow in night training, was delightfully specific: "I'll give Him my diapers."

Winifred said softly that she was going to give Jesus good grades in school. Len's was: "I'd like to be a better husband and father. I'd especially like to give the gift of more patience."

AND SO IT WENT, on around the group. Peter John's was short but significant: "What I need to give to Christ is a more dedicated life."

I was to remember that statement seven and a half months later when the wish expressed that night became an act of dedication at a summer conference of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes in Estes Park, Colo. In June, 1961, he would be graduated from Yale; the autumn would see him in Princeton Seminary. Yet at Christmas time, 1960, that was the last thing he expected to be doing.

Then it was Father's turn. "I certainly don't want to inject too solemn a note into this," he said, "but somehow I know that this is the last Christmas I'll be sitting in this room with my family gathered around me like this."

We gasped and protested, but he would not be stopped. "No, I so much want to say this. I've had a most wonderful life. Long, long ago I gave my life to Christ. Though I've tried to serve Him, I've failed Him often. But He has blessed me with great riches—especially my family. I want to say this while you're all here; I may not have another chance. Even after I go on into the next life, I'll still be with you. And I'll be waiting for each one of you there."

THERE WAS LOVE in his brown eyes—and tears in ours. No one said anything for a moment. Time seemed to stand still in the quiet room. Firelight and candlelight played on the children's faces as they looked at their grandfather, trying to grasp what he was saying. The fragrance of balsam and cedar was in the air.

Father did leave this world four months later—on May 1. His passing was like a benediction. It happened one afternoon as he sat quietly in a chair in the little village post office talking to some of his friends. His heart just stopped beating. That Christmas Eve he had known with a strange sureness that the time was close.

Every time I think of Father now, I can see that scene in the living room—like a jewel of a moment set in the ordinary moments that make up our days. For that brief time, real values came clearly into focus: Father's gratitude for life, Mother's strong faith, my husband's quiet strength, my son's inner yearning momentarily shining through blurred, youthful ambitions, the eager faces of children groping toward understanding and truth, the reality of the love of God as our thoughts focused on Him whose birth we were commemorating.

It was my most memorable Christmas.

CHRISTMAS Away From Home

By BOB HOPE

Editors' Note: No personality in show business has spent more time, energy, and talent entertaining our GIs overseas than Bob Hope. For the morale-boosting effect of these many visits, which date back to World War II, Hope will be awarded the Congressional Gold Medal by President Kennedy sometime during 1963. He will thus be among the very few Americans ever to be accorded this high national honor. In the following story, Bob tells about his annual Christmas trips overseas, which have become an eagerly awaited tradition by GIs everywhere.

THE DEFENSE DEPARTMENT just telephoned to remind me: it's that time of year again—time for me to be on my way to meet old Father Christmas somewhere in Japan, Korea, Okinawa, South Vietnam, or Thailand.

When people ask me why I have been going on these trips for more than a dozen years, I can tell them only what a gift it is to see the light of laughter shining in thousands of homesick eyes. Everyone who has made these trips feels the same way; he wants to climb on a plane and go again. Maybe we're hooked on the box lunches, but I feel we are privileged citizens.

So forgive me if I, who am usually blessed with glibness, find it hard to share my feelings about the 5,000 Marines in Korea who spent five hours huddled for warmth in the biting cold, waiting for us to arrive. Or about Thule, Greenland—probably the most desolate spot on earth—where we found ourselves on New Year's, a time of the year when it is dark around the clock.

Bill Holden and his wife Brenda Marshall, Anita Ekberg, Jerry Colonna, Margaret Whiting, Bob Strauss, and Les Brown and his orchestra were there with me. We saw the New Year in with several hundred soldiers who were so tightly packed into a tiny gymnasium that some actually were hanging from the equipment on the ceiling.

At midnight the band broke into "Auld Lang Syne," and then came dead silence. Seconds later, there was one loud yell from hundreds of throats, a roar of anguish born of loneliness and pent-up emotion that seemed to need a united outlet. It ended as suddenly as it began, and then everyone in that bleak auditorium marched onto the stage to say "Happy New Year." By coincidence, they were all huddled around Anita Ekberg.

I saw a lot of our servicemen during World War II, but my first real Christmas overseas was in 1948, when Tex McCrary told me that Stuart Symington, then Secretary of the Air Force, had asked him to get together a group to fly to Berlin during the airlift.

A few months later I ran into Stu at a party at Romanoff's following a film première. He casually remarked: "By the way, Bob, how about going to Alaska next Christmas to put on a show?"

I didn't think much of the idea. During the war I tried to visit a number of nearby hospitals at Christmas time. But being away during the holiday season was another story, and I told him so.

"Think it over," he insisted. "I'll call you in the morning."

When he called the house, I was still unsure. "I don't like the idea of leaving Dolores," I told him.

"Bring her along."

"But the kids expect . . ."

"Bring them, too."

When I heard the voices of Linda and Tony yell through the receiver, "Let's go, Daddy," I realized everyone in the family had picked up an extension phone to listen in on my decision. So we took everyone but Nora and Kelly, who were too young. But to make sure they had a Christmas, we celebrated ours on Jan. 1, a custom that has continued in our family ever since.

After that first one, my family only went along on a few more trips. By now they have grown so accustomed to my absence at Christmas that they no longer ask if I'm going but merely where I'm going. The only thing that bothers me is the story a friend told me about Dolores. He was standing next to her when we took off last year, and no sooner had our plane left the ground when all the wives who stayed behind began crying—all but Dolores, that is. She turned to our friends with a warm, wonderful smile and said: "I'd cry if he weren't going." Maybe I should stay home next year!

The Junkets Are Not Taken Lightly

But seriously, my family realizes what these trips mean to me and everyone involved. When they tease me about them, they do it gently. After I returned from one junket, they presented me with a huge globe with Los Angeles circled on it. Underneath it was printed: "Make this your next trip, Dad."

These trips aren't all hardship on our part. In fact, there is very little physical discomfort, except for the cold—and I have no right to complain when you consider that Jayne Mansfield peels off her mink coat and stands for hours in a low-cut dress, posing for pictures with the boys. All those flash bulbs going off must produce a special kind of heat therapy.

We've been cold, sure; but by now I'm getting pretty good at turning blue. I suppose our coldest Christmas was spent in Pyongyang, the capital of North Korea, shortly after MacArthur took it

Father had a weakness for tools and gadgets and a talent for making and fixing things. He was generous in using this talent along with much of his time for us children. When we had wanted to play croquet, Father not only helped us construct the court but even strung lights over it so we could invite our friends to play after dark. When I had wanted a wild-flower garden, it was Father who helped me prepare the little plot of ground. When I had gotten interested in moths, Dad had made butterfly nets and wing stretchers for me. When I had wanted a tree house, it was Father who built one for me in the cherry tree by the garage.

With these projects we developed a pattern: I had plenty of ideas; Dad helped me to implement them. Because he and Mother entered so deeply into our lives and interests, for us children there was never any doubt about our being loved. As I remembered all this, I knew that this had been the surest undergirding for life any parents could have given to their children.

Then, too, during those days at the farm, I kept remembering the family traditions which had developed through the years, many of them Christmas customs. We had always gone all-out with decorating—greens all the way up the stairs, on every newel post, on every mantel. There were always lights around the front door and entwined in live evergreens in the yard. And many wreaths; we made them all.

MAKING THINGS together always had been a big part of the tradition. All of the family participated in making apple butter and mince meat, in cracking and shelling nuts and cutting up fruit for fruitcake and our recipe for date-nut roll.

Then after we had begun spending our summers on Cape Cod, the making and giving of beach-plum jelly became one of our traditions. Finding the beach plums in out-of-the-way places in the Cape's sandy soil and gathering them was a family affair. There would follow the pots of cooking plums . . . the night of straining them . . . dozens of juice glasses all over the kitchen counters filled with the jelly, a glorious deep cranberry color when held up to the light.

At the end of the summer the carefully packed jelly would be carted back to Washington. Near Christmas, while we wrapped each glass in cellophane, we would be remembering the tang of the sea wind that day we had gathered the plums and all the fun we had making it.

And what would Christmas dinner be without our reindeer centerpiece—those six beautiful reindeer once made by skilled and loving German hands? Or how could the spirit of the Christ Child ever get inside our hearts without much playing and singing of carols and, for many evenings, the reading aloud of the beloved stories—like the Christmas passage from Five Little Peppers and How They Grew, Louisa May Alcott's Christmas at Orchard House, Leo Tolstoy's Where Love Is, There Is God Also, and Henry Van Dyke's The First Christmas Tree?

Another family tradition was our family service on Christmas Eve after the hanging up of the stockings. The children would help prepare for it, and it was a rule that everyone must participate.

That year of 1960 Lynn and Linda prepared an improvised altar before the living-room fireplace.

Father had a weakness for tools and gadgets and a talent for making and fixing things. He was generous in using this talent along with much of his time for us children. When we had wanted to play croquet, Father not only helped us construct the court but even strung lights over it so we could invite our friends to play after dark. When I had wanted a wild-flower garden, it was Father who helped me prepare the little plot of ground. When I had gotten interested in moths, Dad had made butterfly nets and wing stretchers for me. When I had wanted a tree house, it was Father who built one for me in the cherry tree by the garage.

With these projects we developed a pattern: I had plenty of ideas; Dad helped me to implement them. Because he and Mother entered so deeply into our lives and interests, for us children there was never any doubt about our being loved. As I remembered all this, I knew that this had been the surest undergirding for life any parents could have given to their children.

Then, too, during those days at the farm, I kept remembering the family traditions which had developed through the years, many of them Christmas customs. We had always gone all-out with decorating—greens all the way up the stairs, on every newel post, on every mantel. There were always lights around the front door and entwined in live evergreens in the yard. And many wreaths; we made them all.

MAKING THINGS together always had been a big part of the tradition. All of the family participated in making apple butter and mince meat, in cracking and shelling nuts and cutting up fruit for fruitcake and our recipe for date-nut roll.

Then after we had begun spending our summers on Cape Cod, the making and giving of beach-plum jelly became one of our traditions. Finding the beach plums in out-of-the-way places in the Cape's sandy soil and gathering them was a family affair. There would follow the pots of cooking plums . . . the night of straining them . . . dozens of juice glasses all over the kitchen counters filled with the jelly, a glorious deep cranberry color when held up to the light.

At the end of the summer the carefully packed jelly would be carted back to Washington. Near Christmas, while we wrapped each glass in cellophane, we would be remembering the tang of the sea wind that day we had gathered the plums and all the fun we had making it.

And what would Christmas dinner be without our reindeer centerpiece—those six beautiful reindeer once made by skilled and loving German hands? Or how could the spirit of the Christ Child ever get inside our hearts without much playing and singing of carols and, for many evenings, the reading aloud of the beloved stories—like the Christmas passage from Five Little Peppers and How They Grew, Louisa May Alcott's Christmas at Orchard House, Leo Tolstoy's Where Love Is, There Is God Also, and Henry Van Dyke's The First Christmas Tree?

Another family tradition was our family service on Christmas Eve after the hanging up of the stockings. The children would help prepare for it, and it was a rule that everyone must participate.

That year of 1960 Lynn and Linda prepared an improvised altar before the living-room fireplace.

in 1950 and not long before the Chinese Reds began to push across the Yalu River to drive us out again. It was 20 below zero, but when our teeth started chattering we had only to look at the GIs who had tramped through the snow for a month to reach that destination. And we were certainly better-dressed than they were.

As we were going aboard the plane for our return flight to Japan, a GI yelled: "What are you going to do with that parka, Bob?"

"We're supposed to turn them into the Quartermaster in Tokyo," I hollered back over the roar of the engines.

"I don't have one. How about leaving it here?"

So I shucked it off and threw it to him. And for the next few minutes, while the engines were warming up for our take-off, a dozen GIs came up to the cabin door and asked for our parkas. Everyone aboard threw his down to them, and I'm sure no clothing was ever more appreciated. And the Quartermaster wasn't too tough; not when we told him the whole story.

Precious Moments to Remember

My most wonderful memories of these trips are understandably the little moments of genuine feeling I've experienced with our plane crews and the men for whom we do our shows. Most of our soldiers are kids, still in the "hip" stage; they find it difficult to show emotion, no matter what they feel. I remember such a boy walking up to me one Dec. 25 and handing me a diamond ring.

"Thanks, son, but I can't take it," I told him.

"But you gave up your Christmas for us, and I want you to have it," he insisted as he faded back into the crowd. That was his personal way of saying: "We're grateful for the show."

Or take the winter of '58, when a fellow in uniform yelled: "Bob, my dad wants me to say hello to you."

"Who's your dad?" I asked.

"He wrote me that you played for his battalion in Germany 15 years ago."

Sure, I felt a little like Lili Marlene, but I felt pretty good, too.

There has been a lot of this sort of thing on our trips: shy boys who merely come up to shake hands; plane crews who set up tiny Christmas trees in the cabin and hand out presents as we're flying over some desolate wasteland. I especially remember the navigator who gave up his bunk so I could cat nap between stops. He needed his rest as much as I did, but he passed it off by saying he wanted me to be sharp when I got up to entertain the boys at each stop.

And there was the major in Greenland who turned over to me his comfortable quarters, complete with his shaving kit and an ice-

The setting was the century-old farmhouse in Virginia where my parents have lived since Father's retirement from the ministry. For weeks the nine grandchildren had been looking forward to Christmas on the farm: plenty of room to roam inside and out the old house, which was set in boxwood and surrounded by 125 beautifully rolling acres.

We knew that during most of December the preparations had been under way at Evergreen. The big farm kitchen would be fragrant with baking cookies and fruitcake. There would be a fire in the fireplace with its raised hearth and its Dutch tiles.

The round center table in the kitchen would be continuously in use, not just for cooking but for addressing Christmas cards, for making wreaths, for wrapping jellies and cookies for gifts—a hundred uses. And on all these activities the blue and white Danish Christmas plates would be looking down from the walls on which they hung; this was their season.

Meanwhile we knew that Father had been getting the boxes of Christmas ornaments from the attic, testing out the strings of lights—especially his favorite bubble lights. He had been scouting Evergreen's acres for the perfect tree to cut. In his judgment, it must be cedar (what would Christmas be without the fragrance of cedar?), and it must touch the ceiling. He also had been busy in his workshop making something special. He was mysterious about it: "They'll be the first thing you see when you come into the driveway."

On that day before Christmas we saw them: a group of life-sized children carolers dressed in bright red robes. They were grouped around the lantern post at the end of the driveway. Even the lantern wore a holly wreath.

And as our three younger children tumbled out of the package-laden car (Peter John was to drive down separately from college), Suzie, the huge St. Bernard, came rushing to greet us with bells jingling from her collar. Yes, Father had been hard at work—no question about it.

For as far back as we three children could remember, the yuletide season had been especially important to Father. Always he had regarded Christmas as the crown of the year's family activities. What we did not know was that this year he had felt an inner compulsion to create for his family the one perfect time.

Something of his mood must have communicated itself to me. For during the next few days I kept remembering scenes—like a kaleidoscope of the years past . . .

THERE WAS that first remembered Christmas of my Mississippi childhood when Father had dressed up and played Santa for our Peace Street neighborhood. He had the right voice and laugh for the role—booming, jolly. That booming voice always will be one of the vivid memories of my childhood.

That was the same year that he had spent weeks building doll furniture for my gift: a white bed with four posts, a dresser with drawers with glass knobs and a swinging mirror, a cupboard

The Tree Trimmers

Who'll decorate the Christmas tree
With gayly colored spheres?
. . . . . Everybody!

Who'll drape the ropes of silver beads
Round and round in tiers?
. . . . . Everybody!

Who'll put the twinkling star on top
And spray the limbs with snow?
. . . . . Everybody!

Who'll string the lights from branch to branch
To set the tree aglow?
. . . . . Everybody!

Who'll hang the shimmering tinsel
On its boughs from base to crown?
. . . . . Everybody!

And on the second of January,
Who'll help Mother take it down?
. . . . . Nobody!

—Suzanne Douglas

Snowbound

Although the streets and walks are clear
And passable, my little dear
Plows bravely home from school through all
The drifts and piles of last week's fall;
And barring thaw or freakish parch,
He'll keep on doing it through March!

—Betty Isler

"Good heavens! Throw me your wallet!"

A wife had been busily reading the Sunday newspaper when she suddenly looked up. "This is very interesting," she said to her husband. "This article says scientists predict that in 10 years people will wear clothes which can be discarded after being worn only once."

An elderly matron purchased a used car to do her shopping in and stopped by to have her friend's husband look it over.

The man inspected it with some doubt and finally asked: "Well, it may be all right. What's the most you ever got out of it?"

Everywhere, the fellows have treated the girls in our troupe with tremendous respect—and that is rare for guys who have not seen a woman in months! I'll never forget Jayne Mansfield's arrival at Wake Island when 2,000 voices sang out with joy as she bounced off the plane. Three minutes later the airfield was deserted. Everyone had followed Jayne to the beach to watch her take a dip in her ermine bikini.

There have been a few close calls on our Christmas trips. I suppose the worst was over Anchorage, Alaska, when our plane was caught in a sleet storm at 13,000 feet. Our radios went dead and all contact with the field was lost. As we circled around, hoping for a break in the weather, the pilot told us to put on our parachutes and Mae West jackets.

Down below, General Bruckner, commander of the base, was getting pretty nervous, too. He knew we didn't have enough fuel to make another airstrip, so he ordered every antiaircraft searchlight on the base turned on. The beam of just one light penetrated the heavy cover, but it made it possible for our pilot to drop down quickly through the clouds for a landing.

I'm sure that if it hadn't been for that split-second glimmer of light, I would not have been around to win $15 putting against Arnold Palmer a few weeks ago in our golf sequence for the film, "Call Me Bwana."

There was another flying incident I'd just as soon forget. We'd been performing at the Bayonet Bowl in Korea, and I hated to leave those marvelous guys who kept pleading for us to go on. I must have been on the 15th chorus of "Buttons and Bows," singing to guitar accompaniment while the rest of the band members were packing their instruments into the big helicopter parked a couple of hundred feet behind the stage.

OFF STAGE, I could see the pilot was beginning to worry because the weather was closing in. Finally, he held up a crude sign telling me to get into the copter—fast. When I did, the rotor blades wouldn't move until someone kicked the shaft a couple of times. When we finally did take off, the visibility was practically zero. "I just hope you can still find your way back," I apologized to the pilot.

"Don't worry, Bob," he smiled. "We'll fly in this direction, and if we hear shots we'll know it's the wrong way."

We got through all right. But the very next day, we lost a copter to enemy ground fire in the same area.

The only real embarrassment I've ever had was purely a technical problem. One Christmas in Hollandia, New Guinea, we were out in front of 2,000 men when the mikes went dead. Everyone in the audience started yelling, and I felt terrible: who can be funny when nobody is able to hear you? Since then, I have always insisted that our engineers check the equipment ahead of time. If they find a bug, they can fix it before it's too late. Sometimes, that in itself has been pretty funny.

During the Christmas of 1960, we were with the garrison at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba (see photo on page 5). On Christmas Eve I attended midnight Mass and watched with surprise as the priest came down the aisle giving short sermons at each individual row of worshipers.

I turned to Jack Shea, our director, and whispered: "Look at that. He's working like Billy Graham—I've never seen a priest do that before."

"He has no choice," Jack whispered back. "We swiped his P.A. system for the show."

But because it was Christmas, I knew that he wouldn't mind.

Roast Goose

Clean (singe, if necessary) one goose, 10 to 12 lbs., ready-to-cook weight. Remove layers of fat from body cavity. (If goose is frozen, thaw according to directions on package.) Cut off neck at body, leaving on neck skin. Rinse goose and pat dry with absorbent paper. Rub body and neck cavities with salt. Lightly spoon stuffing into cavities. To close body cavity, sew, or skewer and lace with a cord. Fasten neck skin to back with skewer. Loop cord around legs and tighten slightly. Or, if there is a band of skin across abdominal opening, push the drumstick ends underneath this band. In this case, only abdominal opening should be closed with cord and skewers. Place goose, breast side down, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Roast, uncovered, at 325°F for 2½ hrs., removing fat from pan several times during this period. Reserve fat for gravy. Turn goose, breast side up, and roast 1½ to 2½ hrs. longer, or until goose tests done. (Allow 25 min. per lb. for total roasting time.) To test for doneness, move leg gently by grasping end of bone. When done, drumstick-thigh joint moves easily. To serve, remove skewers and cord. Place on warm serving platter and garnish as desired. About 10 servings
